AL FRESCO ART ATTRACTS TOURISTS

Victoria's art colony moved from studio to street today as prominent local artists piled their trade and showed their wares at the Government-Belle-ville causeway corner. On hand today were Peggy Walton Packard, Elsie Hammer, and Betty Carver, and early indications were they would equal Thunderbird Park as magnets for tourist-borne cameras. All are members of Guild of British Columbia artists. Project is sponsored by Victoria Society of Artists. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

PRAGUE — All 108 men were killed in a sudden gas explosion and fire in a Czech coal mine.

A mine official said all hope was "definitely" abandoned of saving any lives.

He said the explosion occurred Friday afternoon when the miners were working underground about 400 yards from the pithead.

The first announcement of the disaster was made by the official Czech news agency Ceteke.

The cause of the disaster is unknown. Ceteke said the fire spread rapidly. Rescue teams were hurried to the scene from the entire coal basin. They battled the blaze until the early hours this morning.

Showdown Close In Senate

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Liberal majority in the Senate today rallied its strength against Prime Minister Diefenbaker's threat of Senate reform.

The upper chamber of Parliament stole the scene from the House of Commons when it met this afternoon in an unusual Saturday sitting.

The senators have before them two of the hottest items of legislation of the current session—the bill to fire Bank of Canada governor James E. Coyne, and the Commons rejection of a Senate amendment to the government's controversial tariff bill.

The Liberals, who have a three-to-one majority in the upper House, alerted as many of their out-of-town colleagues to rush to the capital to be on hand for the import debate.

COMMITTEE MET

The Senate's banking and commerce committee met at 10:30 a.m. to discuss a bill to widen the scope of operations of the Industrial Development Bank which is headed by Coyne in addition to his role as governor of the central bank.

Coyne did not appear as speculated before the committee, which passed the bill without amendment. The bill was sent back to the Senate for third and final reading.

The tariff bill amendment was regarded as perhaps the most significant of the two items of business as far as the Senate was concerned.

Diefenbaker rejected the amendment to the government's "class or kind" legislation and said that if the Senate did not back down, he would call a general election "sooner or later... in the days ahead" to let the people decide on the issue of Senate reform.

TO ADJOURN

With the controversial Coyne bill out of the way, the Commons today looked forward to a summer vacation beginning tonight.

Although the Liberals blocked attempts to sit Friday night, the government hoped that the few major items of business still on the order paper would be cleaned up in the regular sitting today.

Beginning at 11 a.m., the Commons was scheduled to consider a bill to finance the Canadian National Railways' big deficit, budget legislation involving the Income Tax Act, an appropriation act and interim supply to carry the government's operations over the holiday period.

The House earlier had hoped to recess for the summer on June 30, returning early in September.

Today was the 152nd day of the present session, close to the record 153 days set in 1903 and the modern record of 134 days during the 1956 pipeline debate.

U.K. FIXES CAVITIES FOR SOVIET DANCERS

LONDON (AP) — Russian ballet dancers appearing here on a tour have gone on a dental spree—at the expense of British taxpayers.

A spokesman for the Leningrad Kirov Ballet Company's British agents said a dozen girl dancers have been paying regular visits to London dentists to have neglected teeth fixed at a cost of £1 ($2.80) each.

Under the national health service Britons—and visitors to this country—pay only £1 for dental treatment with the rest of the cost being met out of government funds.

SOUTH VIET NAM

Grenade Tossed At U.S. Envoy

unhurt

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — United States Ambassador Frederick Nolting escaped unhurt today when one of two would-be assassins threw a home-made grenade at his car. The grenade failed to explode.

The envoy's bodyguard fired several shots at the assailants, who were on a motor bicycle. One escaped on the machine and the other ran off on foot through heavy traffic on one of Saigon's main thoroughfares.

A United States Embassy spokesman said a man on a motor bicycle with another man on the passenger seat roared past the car in which Nolting, his bodyguard and his driver were travelling. The driver of the motorcycle tossed the grenade at the car window. The grenade hit the top of the car roof and skidded off onto the back of the car where it lodged without exploding.

'Forced' By Crisis On Berlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev announced today the Soviet Union has suspended planned reductions in its armed forces in view of the world situation.

War budgets of the North Atlantic nations are growing, Khrushchev said, and the Soviet government accordingly has decided to increase defence allocations for this year by 3,144,000,000 rubles. The Russians value the ruble at $1.11 U.S.

This will raise the Soviet Union's announced military spending in 1961 to 12,399,000,000 rubles.

FORCED MEASURES

Khrushchev asserted that these are forced measures. "We are taking them due to the emerging circumstances because we cannot neglect the interests of the Soviet people's security."

The premier appealed in a speech to the leaders of the United States, Britain and France to "display wisdom" and join in concluding a peace treaty with Germany.

Khrushchev urged the leaders of Russia's Second World War allies—President Kennedy, President de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan—to "display wisdom in the solution of the German question, to sit down at the conference table together with the other peace-loving nations and to conclude a peace treaty."

Khrushchev announced in January, 1960, that he planned to cut the strength of the Soviet armed forces to 2,400,000 from 3,600,000. He said at the time the Soviet Union was taking this unilateral step without delay and without conditions.

'SHOW NO DESIRE'

Calling today for a peace treaty with Germany, he said the Western leaders showed no desire to co-operate with the U.S.S.R. in concluding a German treaty. He said threatening notes had appeared in the statements of the western powers.

He expressed agreement a recent statement by Kennedy that any new decision on West Berlin should not jeopardize the rights of the city's population to make an independent choice as free peoples.

"Our proposals fully meet this requirement. It is perfectly natural, however, that any decision on West Berlin must reckon with the fact that it is in the heart of a sovereign state and that all West Berlin's communication with the outer world passes through the territory of this state."

Berlin is 110 miles inside East Germany. "We shall sign the peace treaty with East Germany and order our armed forces to administer a worthy rebuff to any aggressor if he raises his hand against the Soviet Union or our friends."

Britain Cuts Kuwait Force

KUWAIT TOWN (AP) — Britain began cutting her 5,000-man defence force in Kuwait today amid indications officials felt the immediate danger of attack from Iraq has been averted. But a token force will remain in the sheikdom.

COX GOES IN, CAN'T GET OUT

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (Reuters) — The Russian Navy had an embarrassing moment today after winning the top prize of the Henley Royal Regatta, the Grand Challenge Cup.

The Soviet sailors decided to celebrate by tossing their coxswain into the water. The cox, it turned out, was a non-swimming sailor. He had to be rescued.

CCFers Pledge Fight On Divorce Report

OTTAWA (UPI) — Two CCF members of parliament today blasted a Commons report on divorce procedure which they said would "perpetuate the corruption which now exists in divorce matters."

Frank Howard (Skeena) and Arnold Peters (Timiskaming) in a statement outside the House said they would fight "every inch of the way" the report of a special committee pointed by Commons Speaker Roland Michener to improve procedures for hearing divorce bills from Quebec and Newfoundland.

The special committee suggested that the Commons give automatic first- and second-reading to divorce bills, send them to the Commons miscellaneous bills committee, and after approval there send them back to the House for automatic third and final reading.

The suggested procedure apparently was designed to prevent a repetition of the divorce filibuster by Howard and Peters which has blocked some 356 divorce bills passed by the Senate.

The two MPs have attempted to rid the Commons of the responsibility for granting divorces in the two provinces

SHORTS IN STYLE AGAIN

Don't Forget the Lotion!

Shorts and sunburn weather has returned to the city "for a couple of days at least," weatherman William Mackie said today.

After a hot and brilliant Dominion Day weekend, weather deteriorated until Wednesday, when .66 inch of rain fell from the early morning to mid-afternoon.

Gradual improvement followed, to the point where the forecast is "sunny and warm today and Sunday."

Temperatures will verge on "hot." Official temperature at Gonzales Observatory at noon was 67 degrees, and Mr.

Mackie expected a high of 75 degrees later this afternoon in warmer parts of the city and district.

Minimum overnight will be 52 degrees, and another peak of 75 degrees is expected for Sunday.

Winds will be northerly at 15 miles per hour Sunday morning, then southwesterly at 15 miles in the afternoon.

Outlook is uncertain, Mr. Mackie said. "There is storm activity west of us, and it will have to be considered early in the week," he said. "Meanwhile, the good weather will hold through Sunday."

French Bombing

CHARTRES, France (UPI) — A plastic bomb exploded just in front of Chartres' famous medieval cathedral today. The blast damaged the main doorway and smashed windows in several houses near the ancient cathedral square. No one was injured.

'Funny Money' Motion Puts Socreds in Tizzy

OTTAWA (CP)—A sudden, last-minute backdown by Quebec Social Crediters rescued their national party convention Friday from a dramatic policy split over an immediate $100 dividend payment by the government to every Canadian.

The Quebec delegation made the head-breach move by agreeing to have its $5,800,000 idea referred to the party's national council—rather than force an East-West vote that could have broken party unity.

The Quebec proposal—supported by René Caouette, the party's new deputy leader, and Gilles Gauthier, newly-elected national vice-president—called on the present, Conservative government to order the Bank of Canada to distribute $100 to every man, woman and child in Canada.

MOTION BELATED

The motion—based on Social Credit's theories of national dividends—was slipped before the delegates in the dying moments of the four-day convention. About 200 of the original 700 delegates were on hand, and many of the remaining westerners were eyeing their watches as train departure time drew close.

"It is a wish, not a policy," said Mr. Caouette.

But Mel A. Rowatt of Elmville, Ont., said the idea was "economic suicide" that would turn Canada's economy into a financial frenzy.

"Our opponents would say 'see how crazy those Social Crediters are.' We must make certain that Social Credit becomes the government before we advocate $100 to every man, woman and child."

Mr. Rowatt, described by another delegate as an economic expert, argued that old-line government under present banking laws, could not handle such a massive injection of purchasing power into the economy.

He said only a Social Credit government, by enforcing its monetary reform plans, including restrictions on chartered banks, could cope with what amounted to a payment of $1,800,000,000.

AVERTED SQUABBLE

Daryl Rymble, president of the Saskatchewan Social Credit League, finally persuaded the delegates to avert a "hubbub" just before the convention close. He suggested that the Quebec motion be referred to the national council for study.

"We'll accept that," said Mr. Gauthier. But in the confusion, the Quebec delegates voted against the referral motion.

Chairman Orvis A. Kennedy of Edmonton called for another vote—and this time East and West voted together, thus resolving the stormiest debate of the four-day convention. A few minutes later, the convention itself was brought to a close.

It was the biggest national convention ever mustered by the Social Credit party, which saw its 19 MPs driven from the House of Commons by the Conservative election sweep of 1958.

But the rally still failed to attract the 1,200 or more delegates party officials had predicted.

TO TAKE HOLIDAY

Robert N. Thompson, 47-year-old Albertan picked by the convention to fill the leadership post left vacant last fall when ailing Solon Low resigned, plans a holiday, plus several speaking engagements in the United States during the next three years. He hailed the convention as a great success—proof of Social Credit resiliency after its 1958 election defeat.

CAUSED HALF-FIRES

Trains' Brakes Forest Hazard

Brakes on PGE trains were blamed this week by the B.C. Forest Service for starting more than half of the fires reported to date this year in the vast Vancouver forest district.

Of the 2,435 fires started in the district, 1,328 were said to have been started by trains.

Foresters said 1,437 of the fires were confined to ties, and were extinguished by patrols which follow the trains, but that all are potential threats to nearby forests.

Airman Aided Wife To Suicide

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Robert Ducharme, 21, an air force technician who admitted he encouraged his 18-year-old wife to take an overdose of drugs and then watched her die, has been sentenced to up to five years in the Wisconsin reformatory.

Ducharme pleaded guilty Friday to a charge of aiding in the suicide of his wife, Kathleen, in their trailer home March 27. The couple had two boys, aged one and two years.

Ducharme told authorities his wife "was a cross for me to carry" and admitted he brought home some "pain pills" and urged her to take them. He said she took some 80 tablets and he brought her water to aid in swallowing them.

Russia Vetoes UN Move

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—The Soviet Union killed by veto Friday a British resolution urging the United Nations Security Council to guarantee the independence of Kuwait.

The veto was followed by defeat of a United Arab Republic resolution demanding immediate withdrawal of British troops from the oil-rich desert sheikdom.

The 11-nation council thus wound up four days of debate unable to agree on any course of action to settle the dispute set off by Iraq's claim to Kuwait.

Hoffa Critics 'Wasting Time'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James R. Hoffa today advised his critics to get lost. He said he's whipped 'em and they might as well admit it.

Hoffa, 48, a onetime Detroit warehouse hand, was elected overwhelmingly Friday to a second five-year term as president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters over only token opposition.

"Seriously," Hoffa remarked later, "I think Bobby Kennedy, his brother the president, the secretary of labor, and the supposed Senate select committee ought to recognize now that the time and effort they've put in trying to destroy the Teamsters have completely failed. It was a waste of time."

Hoffa referred, of course, to President Kennedy, Attorney General Robert Kennedy, Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg, and to the Senate investigating committee headed by Senator John McClellan, Arkansas Democrat.

'LEAVE US ALONE'

"From now on, they ought to leave us alone," Hoffa said. "They ought to quit fooling around and let us operate as a trade union and as Americans."

Hoffa said the charges and investigations piled up against him and the Teamsters during

U.K. Looks to Arabs

By JOHN EARLE
LONDON (Reuters)—Britain is expected to look to the Arabs for a settlement of the Kuwait problem, diplomatic observers said today.

They said the problem is moving into the diplomatic field now that the buildup of British troops is complete in the Persian Gulf sheikdom with no signs of hostile moves by Iraq in the last few days.

British policy makers will have to study what sort of diplomatic solution can be achieved that would enable Britain to withdraw its forces with the full consent of the sheik of Kuwait, the observers said.

The speed and effectiveness with which British forces moved in to answer the ruler's call for help were seen as raising British prestige in the oil states of the Middle East, particularly in the Persian Gulf.

But British leaders were regarded as anxious not to keep a useful and highly mobile portion of military and naval forces immobilized in the Persian Gulf indefinitely.

BRITAIN COMMITTED

Britain is committed to keeping forces in Kuwait as long as the sheik thinks they are necessary for preserving the independence of his oil-rich sheikdom.

Thoughts have thus turned to the possibility of a settlement that the sheik—and other Arab leaders—would consider effective enough for acceptance.

One possibility might be for members of the Arab League to give a guarantee of Kuwait's independence and integrity, perhaps with formal backing by the United Nations.

A meeting of the Arab League Council is scheduled for Wednesday to consider an application by Kuwait for membership.

Indications are the United Arab Republic will support Kuwait's application only on condition the British troops withdraw from the sheikdom.

The Phony Issue

IF MR. DIEFENBAKER CALLS a general election to settle his quarrel with the Senate, the Canadian people should understand from the start what the quarrel is about.

The Prime Minister says the Senate has no right to amend legislation which redefines goods "of a class or kind made in Canada" because this is a revenue bill and as such must be framed by the House of Commons.

In saying that Mr. Diefenbaker misrepresents the position of the Senate, it does not agree with the policy of the bill which is designed solely to increase restrictions on Canada's imports. Nevertheless the Senate accepts the policy because it is the policy of the Government and the House of Commons majority. All the Senate has done is to amend the bill in a very narrow area with no effect whatever on the revenues of the Government.

The amendment merely provides that when the minister of national revenue rules that certain imports are similar to goods made in Canada and therefore must carry maximum tariffs, then an aggrieved importer shall have the right to appeal this ministerial ruling to the Tariff Board. Until the new legislation was introduced the right of appeal from such rulings always existed. The citizen could appeal to the Tariff Board on questions of fact and then, if he was not satisfied, to the Courts.

In ordinary justice the citizen must have this right. Otherwise the minister of national revenue can make any decision whatever on the citizen's business and that decision is final no matter what the real facts may be. Not only would the new legislation remove the historic right of appeal but it gives the minister power to declare that goods are of a class or kind made in Canada even if they are not made in Canada and never have been. He can rule that such goods could be made in Canada and therefore must pay maximum tariffs. This decision may be quite wrong in fact but no one can reverse it.

The issue which may precipitate an election is not the right of the Commons to determine the broad policies of the nation as Mr. Diefenbaker pretends, but whether the citizen shall have a measure of protection against the arbitrary dictates of a cabinet minister. Not the rights of the Commons but the rights of the citizen are in question.

This is so obvious that if Mr. Diefenbaker dissolves Parliament on a false issue he is only grasping for an excuse to call a snap election. Certainly there are many good reasons for an election, but the business of Parliament long delayed by the Government is in disarray. The Government in general and the Prime Minister in particular have been charged by Mr. Coyne with misleading the nation. A completely new fiscal and monetary policy has been introduced by a government which denounced it as unthinkable only a year ago and has no mandate to carry it out now. But if these conditions justify an election the dispute with the Senate does not.

The Ardent Advocate

WHEN THE PROVINCIAL ENERGY Board was instructed to study the costs of the Columbia and Peace River power schemes the people of British Columbia supposed that it would undertake an impartial, factual inquiry.

Instead, Dr. Shrum, chairman of the board, has gone far beyond that instruction and is now trying to change the nation's power policy.

This policy has always forbidden massive, long-term exports of electricity but Dr. Shrum insists that they are essential. As a private citizen he has every right to this opinion. Or as a politician he would be entitled to advocate any policy that appealed to him.

But acting as the head of the Energy Board, and required to make a factual inquiry into the costs of two power schemes, Dr. Shrum now undermines public confidence in the Board's impartiality. For it is no longer merely getting the facts; it is urging a policy.

In the impassioned language of Dr. Shrum, it is conducting a crusade against the federal government. It is carrying the ball for its employer, the provincial government. It is running interference for Mr. Bennett. It is like a court which starts to try a prisoner but first declares his innocence or guilt.

What the public requires from Dr. Shrum, as its paid servant, are the technical facts of the Columbia and Peace projects. What it is getting so far is rhetoric, all of it designed to build up Mr. Bennett's case for power exports.

Next Step on Duncan Hospital

THE NORTH COWICHAN Council has made good its threat to kill the new Duncan hospital project, but apparently the scheme will not stay dead.

Formal approval of the plan was required by all participating districts. When North Cowichan council members, on a three-to-two vote, rejected the proposal, thereby declining payment of $512,569 as its share toward the projected new institution, the financial arrangements for the modern hospital seemed to have been destroyed.

This need not necessarily be the case.

The Chemainus Ratepayers Association—the group which supported councillors who turned down the required by-law—have suggested an alternative. They have advanced the idea that hospital taxes be levied in North Cowichan for both the Chemainus hospital, or its replacement, and the one planned in Duncan, with the latter receiving two-thirds of the tax returns. That would probably give the Duncan project as much as it would have received from North Cowichan under the rejected bylaw.

In other words, North Cowichan's share of the funds for the big Duncan hospital would be provided through a different channel, but it would be provided.

While this seems to be a reversal of the principle established by the vote, it holds merit in Chemainus because of another interesting development.

Ladysmith is now talking about forming a hospital district. That district, presumably, would stretch into territory which the Chemainus area needs if it is to raise funds for a new hospital of its own. Chemainus, in other words, would be caught in a squeeze between the big Cowichan district and the small Ladysmith district.

In such a position, Chemainus, or North Cowichan, would probably require help from Cowichan, the larger district whose plans the council has just frustrated. The Chemainus Ratepayers seem well informed on that point.

The way seems open for a rapprochement, if not for the best of reasons, at least for very practical ones.

Warning on Speedboats

FURTHER RESTRICTIONS ARE being sought from the Saanich council on the operation of speedboats on Elk and Beaver Lakes. What the council does in the matter is of direct concern to people who frequent those lakes. But the importance of the present agitation is not quite so localized.

The opposition by various groups to speedboat activities on Elk and Beaver should serve warning on boat owners who patronize other bodies of water. Unless those boat operators show commonsense and courtesy to others who enjoy different forms of water sport, they can expect a rising outcry against speedboating in general.

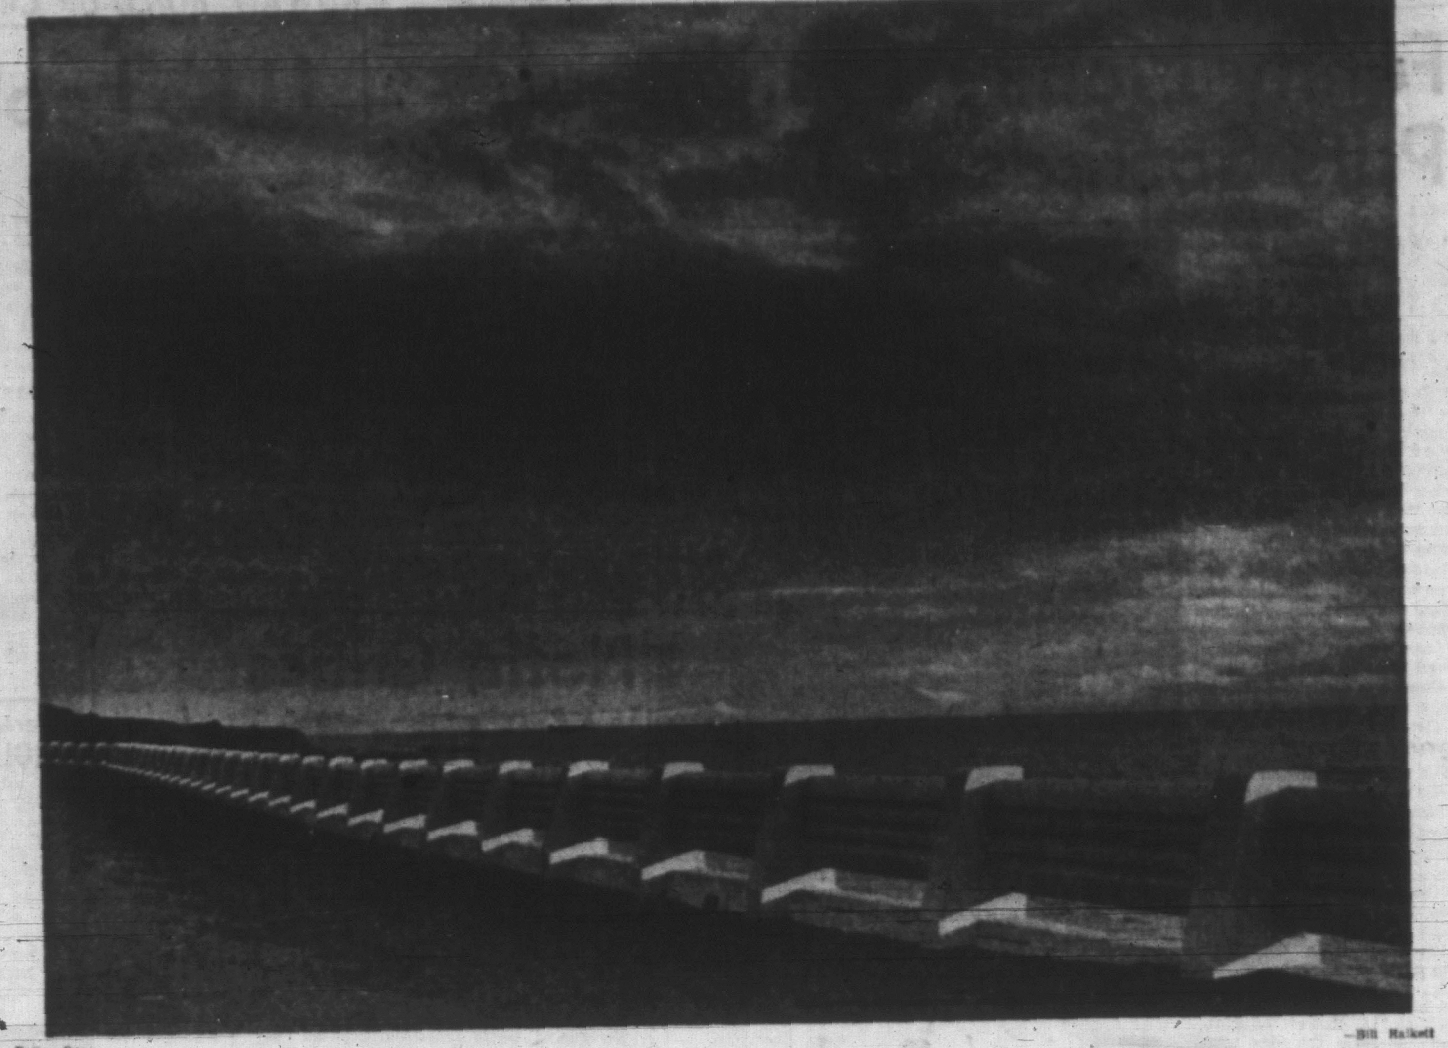

One of the problems in establishing a code of self-discipline for fast boat owners has been revealed at Elk and Beaver Lakes. Members of boating clubs have, by and large, shown commendable responsibility.

They try to avoid causing displeasure to others, if for no other reason than an appreciation of the fact that public anger will enforce stricter controls. But there are others, not members of clubs, who show little regard for anyone's convenience or enjoyment. They bring the whole boating fraternity into bad repute.

That is a point to keep in mind as Saanich gives consideration to requests for more restrictions on the two lakes in question. Closer regulation appears almost inevitable there, and perhaps elimination of power boats from the water.

What happens in Saanich can happen on lakes in other areas.

A little consideration for others—and sharp disciplining of those who offend—could go a long way to protect the legitimate use of popular lakes by operators of fast boats.

FROM WASHINGTON

DEMONOLOGICAL circles have been much agitated in the last couple of days, by the publication in London of another alleged denunciation of Mao Tse-tung by his great Soviet comrade-in-arms, NIKHITA S. KHRUSHCHEV. Thus far, the consensus is that the London document is a plant and a forgery.

Alsop

Nonetheless, this dubious document has rather sharply underlined what may be called the demonologists' dilemma. Even if it is as phony as a $3 bill, the fact remains that other evidence has lately been turning up, in increasing volume, which suggests very serious trouble between Russia and China. Yet even the most high-powered students of Communist demonology hardly know what to make of this evidence.

The most recent item was the brick publication by the Soviet Ministry of Foreign Trade, of the exact amount of China's very large debt to the Soviet Union. The sum mentioned was no less than 320 million dollars in rubles. China's inability to pay this sum on time was somewhat rudely pointed out, and the terms of the moratorium, permitting slow payment over a five-year period were also published.

Publication of all these facts, many months after the event, seems to indicate an intention to document and emphasize both China's current economic difficulties, and the continuing dependence of the Peking leadership on aid from Moscow. The fact that this aid has not promoted amity was almost simultaneously indicated, by the affair of the anniversary celebrations in Peking and Ulan Bator.

The Peking celebrations were held in lonely splendor, with not a single Soviet delegate in attendance. But at the same moment, the leading theoretician of the Soviet Presidium, Mikhail Suslov, led an important Soviet delegation to the anniversary party being held in Outer Mongolia. And the Soviet press, while virtually ignoring the celebrations in Peking, reported those in Ulan Bator at great length and with great prominence.

The affair in Albania was distinctly more lurid in general outline, though still obscure in detail. Among the European Communist leaders, Enver Hoxha of Albania has been alone in supporting Mao Tse-tung in his ideological dispute with Khrushchev. Therefore Khrushchev evidently ordered the Soviet equivalent of the C.I.A. to squash Hoxha.

If the Soviet Union resembled the United States, the sequel might have been something like the Cuban affair. Certainly the attempt to squash the pro-Chinese Hoxha was a sorry failure. In the outcome, Khrushchev's agents in Albania were quickly identified. All were rounded up, executed. More important still, the Soviet submarine base in Albania was also abruptly closed, forcing Khrushchev to bring his submarines home to bases in the Baltic.

All these items of evidence point to the same conclusion, that no permanent results were achieved in Moscow last November, when the leaders of world Communism spent three weeks trying to paper over the cracks of the Sino-Soviet dispute. Both the dispute itself and the resulting infighting would seem to be more bitter than ever.

Up to this point, the demonologists are in general agreement. Their difficulties become acute, however, when they attempt to assess the effects of the Sino-Soviet dispute on Communist world policy and especially on Soviet world policy.

One school holds that Khrushchev is under real pressure from the Chinese, and therefore being forced to take a hard line in his dealings with the West, in particular at Berlin. But if Khrushchev really is under this kind of pressure, it must follow that the Chinese have significant support within the Russian Communist party, among Khrushchev's own subordinates. All the known data instead indicates that Khrushchev now wields absolute control of the Russian party, from his hand-picked presidium downward.

Hence there is more apparent logic in the views of the opposing demonological school. This group holds that the threat to Berlin is Khrushchev's own enterprise, which he began before his dispute with the Chinese reached the acute stage.

If this is correct, two parallel processes have to be envisioned. One process is Khrushchev's attempt to exploit the Soviet Union's real or imagined current advantages, in order to make gains at the expense of the West at Berlin and elsewhere. The other process is the Sino-Soviet dispute, probably rooted in the reversion of the Chinese leadership to super-Stalinist policies of such severity that they may conceivably cause an internal explosion in China.

But even if these processes are parallel instead of interconnected, they do not tend to promote tranquility.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

For a bush hike and rocky knoll scramble go into the area at the south side of Francis Park off Munn Road.

The land is broken by rock outcrops with deep little valleys where the cedars grow straight and tall. Scattered among them you will see some old Douglas firs that range in size up to five feet through.

In the trough of these valleys there is often a small swamp surrounded by a dense thicket of willow and hardack.

In the shady glens you will find the Rein orchids with its delicate perfume and beautiful white flowers. Under the shade of the big trees you will spot the Indian Pipe or, as it is sometimes called, the ghost plant with its waxy white stems that turn black as it ages.

The ravens nest in this area and you can see and hear them teaching the young birds to fly.

In this locality you may run across a high cliff with some 50 to 60 feet of a sheer drop into a large swamp. This is the home of the "wild goats." These animals have strayed away from some farm many years ago and have become very wary and shy. The leader of the flock a rugged old "billy" keeps a close watch over his charges. You have to be a good stalker to get close to them.

This is a fascinating and rugged country.

REFUSAL TO BE DECREPIT

Hemingway—He Told Some Good Stories Well

WHEN I saw in the newspaper some months ago that Hemingway had been ill and receiving hospital treatment, it occurred to me to wonder how that mythical man was going to accept the fact that he was over 60 years old. I could not visualize an old, decrepit Hemingway; his very name is synonymous with vitality and action and energetic youth. I do not know how he felt about advancing age, though his story of "Old Man and the Sea" contains some revealing reflections on the topic, but it would not surprise me to learn that his decision to bring his life to an end was prompted by the intolerable vision of eventual helplessness. I say "decision," because I do not find the "accident" theory very credible: fire-arms played an important part in Hemingway's life from the time he was given his first shotgun at the age of ten, and it would be remarkable indeed if such a man could not clean a gun without fatal consequences to himself.

Emery

I can never be sufficiently grateful to Providence for guiding me to a book by Hemingway when I was at an age to be most impressed by him. I was sixteen, I recall, when Jonathan Cape put out his first volumes in the Florin library, and with some money given me for a birthday I bought three of them. From the moment I opened the book and read: "In the late summer of that year we lived in a house in a village that looked across the river and the plain to the mountains"—from that moment I was lost in admiration for an author whose works I went on to devour.

I thought "Farewell to Arms" was the best thing I had ever read until I got hold of "Fiesta," as "The Sun Also Rises" was called by its English publisher. This book I still believe was Hemingway's masterpiece. In it for the first time I met his vivid descriptions of trout fishing and bull fighting, and made the acquaintance of the character who, more perhaps than any other, embodied the Hemingway outlook on life. Life, for Jake (and for Lieutenant Henry, and for Robert Jordan and Nick Adams and Manuel Garcia and Harry Morgan and The Old Man, and for every Hemingway hero that I can think of off-hand), was a series of dirty tricks: just when you thought everything was going to be wonderful the trapdoor opened and down you went. After a while you realized that it was no good expecting anything good to last: you enjoyed it, whatever it was, and when it came to an end, when the good thing was spoiled by one of Life's Little Ironies, you shrugged it off, and though it had hurt you badly you weren't going to give Whoever It Was the satisfaction of knowing that it had hurt. You pretended not to feel a thing. You'd show the...

Of course this is an adolescent philosophy, and of course Hemingway was, all his life, in many ways an adolescent. His obsession with firearms and cruelty and violence, war and other bloodsports, drinking and hairy-chested public demonstrations of virility; his long lectures on the importance of "colonies" and the proper ways to catch fish, kill bulls, shoot cavalrymen and command infantry divisions; his unbelievable heroines, virginal but wanton, tough and compliant; all these point to the literary Peter Pan who never outgrew a wildly romantic adolescent fantasy-world.

His weaknesses are obvious. First, there is the limitation of the philosophy, if you can call it that, underlying his heroes' actions. Then there is, in the later works, a stylistic mannerism that at times degenerates almost into self-parody: the sentence that Hemingway took from Gertrude Stein and Sherwood Anderson and Stephen Crane and fashioned into something far beyond anything that they could ever have imagined or wrought for themselves became too formalized and stilted, even pretentious. There is, too, for anyone who reads the whole corpus of Hemingway's work, a fatal tendency to repetition—of themes, anecdotes, even characters—discernible in the stories and novels.

But to offset these faults he had virtues that go a long way to balance the account. A keenly observant eye, a retentive ear for dialogue, an economy of words that is certainly unusual in American writers of the twentieth century, an ability to express in memorable words experiences that commonly fail to the lot only of the relatively inarticulate. Nobody has written better about fishing and skiing, boxing and bull fighting, shooting and drinking, than Hemingway.

Everyday Tragedy

And more than this, there is his unique perception of the everyday tragedy, and of the necessity for stoicism. Many people have missed his irony, and some have not encountered his very real sense of humor which is especially in evidence in the earlier stories such as "Three Day Blow." When he decided to exclude from his books any evidence of his keen interest in literature and painting it was, I feel, an impoverishment of his work, but every now and again he slipped up and made a remark that gave the game away. He had begun his literary life, after all, as an intimate of Miss Stein and Ezra Pound, Ford Madox Ford and Robert McAlmon; he committed some poems, one of which is in Pound's anthology; he bought paintings by Braque and Gris.

But there are literary mandarins enough: it was Hemingway's great contribution that he showed what could be done with everyday tragic themes, using the simple vernacular. His simple directness, at his best, was his most engaging quality. Who could resist the apparently artless question that begins even his worst book: "You know how it is there early in the morning in Havana with the bums still asleep against the walls of the buildings, before even the ice wagons come by with ice for the bars?" He told some good stories well. I believe he will rank with Kipling and Conrad as a literary craftsman, and with them, too, as a narrator of tales of courage in adversity.

And the Glory of Sport

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

NATIONALIST Chinese film censors in Formosa have performed a record hatchet job on, of all things, La Grande Olympiade, the film of the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome.

Before this documentary was passed for showing in the cinemas of Taipei, it was cut in more than 100 places and reduced in length by one quarter. The operation took five days, and the expurgated version of the film may now be seen—but it does not disclose that the Russians, or any other competitors from the Communist bloc, won a single victory.

Chinese Nationalist anger also extends to the Olympic Games of 1964, which are to be held in Japan. Tokyo is reported to have sponsored the participation of Communist China in the games in exchange for a hoped-for agreement from Peking that relay runners carrying the Olympic torch may follow the "Marco Polo" route across Asia and through mainland China on the way to Japan.

Taipei is afraid that since Peking does not countenance the "two Chinas" policy, the International Olympics Committee may have to placate the Communists by excluding Formosa from the games.

Discrimination of this sort is not entirely foreign to the Olympic Games. Nearly 3,000 years ago they were open only to freemen of Hellenic descent; and barbarians and women could not compete. Perhaps, therefore, we may at least console ourselves with the comforting thought that we are not actually moving backwards.

Background of Eyes

Emotional Confusion in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and American Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

People who are suffering from high blood pressure, or kidney disease, or hardening of the arteries ask me why their doctor was so insistent on sending them to an able ophthalmologist. The answer is simple. The little arteries in the eyes are usually much like those in the brain, and hence if those in the eyes are normal the chances are that those in the brain are good also.

Alvarez

Sometimes, when a man with high blood pressure has tiny "flame hemorrhages" in his retinas, and what are called cotton-wool patches, and when the arteries are thickened and hard, the future is not so bright. Largely on the basis of the severity of the changes seen in the retinas, the eye-man can say that the patient has a hypertension of grade I, II, III, or IV. Grade I is mild and not likely to give trouble. Grade II can give trouble, and grade III can soon make a man so ill he cannot work. Grade IV is usually very severe, but occasionally the patient can be saved.

To most persons, high blood pressure looks like just one disease, and all of it bad. To the expert, there are the four grades. When I see a healthy woman of 55 with a systolic (top of the wave) blood pressure reading of 165 or 175 mm. I cannot get excited because I have seen so many hundreds of such women who lived comfortably for many years.

Some people write—puzzled—to ask why one day their systolic (top of the wave) blood pressure is 180, and the next day it is 120 mm. of mercury. There can be several reasons for this. One is that in many highly emotional people the blood pressure keeps going up and down. Perhaps on the day the pressure was high the person had been much annoyed or angered by someone. Another common possibility is that the first time a nervous woman goes into the office of a strange physician, her blood pressure can be 175, while the next time she goes—when she perhaps has come to like the man, and hence is at ease with him—her pressure will be only 140.

Another point that must be remembered is that, with a night's good rest in bed, the pressure commonly drops. I will never forget a day when a woman came to the Mayo Clinic with a pressure of 200 mm., and a story of such severe headaches and dizziness and attacks of heart consciousness that I was uneasy about her. I was so uneasy I did what I rarely do in such cases, and sent her right into the hospital. The next morning, when I dropped in to see her, the resident could not imagine why I had been anxious about her. He said, "I just now took her pressure and it is 120 mm." I took it, and 120 mm. it was. I got her up out of bed and had her walk up and down the hall, and soon her pressure was 160. The 200 mm. of the evening before had been due to the fatigue of her journey, plus the excitement of seeing a new doctor.

There is a very rare disease in which a little tumor in a suprarenal gland—a pheochromocytoma—will cause the person's blood pressure to jump up and down. In the last case I saw it caused the woman also to have tremendous sweats, and some flushes, and marked ups and downs in her basal metabolic rate. With the removal of the little tumor she was a new woman and a well woman.

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

To the Young

LADYSMITH CHRONICLE

This editorial is directed to the young people of Ladysmith in the hope that they will come to realize the serious problem which has been developing over a period of years and in the hope that they can help do something about it. The problem is the senseless vandalism that has been taking place in recreation areas.

Apparently there is some code of honor which inhibits young people from informing on one another. If they would take a good look at this tribal custom, they would realize that all it does is make it possible for a small, maladjusted and mentally sick minority to blacken the name of all young people.

Crofton Beach

COWICHAN LEADER—Some Crofton residents, admiring lovely government parks north and south of them on Vancouver Island, such as Bamberton Park and Miracle Beach, are questioning why Crofton with its fine sand lacks the facilities of these other places.

The answer is simple: the Crofton beach is a municipal responsibility. The government does not create parklands in municipalities. The residents' point is well taken, however. The time has come to bring up the standard of municipal beaches in North Cowichan.

Cheminus has enjoyed the community effort of its Kinsmen Park and the council has co-operated with the same community in developing Fuller Lake, with Cheminus Rotary Club, the IWA and other groups helping there also. Service clubs provided a swim float at Maple Bay where the municipality built a $10,000 retaining wall for parking and boathouse facilities.

Crofton, with the finest sand south of Parksville, has received only scattered help. Residents want to know why a concerted municipal effort cannot be made and development money put into the project, to improve the foreshore area and provide picnicking facilities, adequate for the large Sunday crowds which gather. A modern parking lot is held to be another immediate requirement.

Camping Charges

COMOX DISTRICT FREE PRESS

There will probably be a great outcry about the government's restriction on free camping in provincial parks but it seems that the decision was a wise one.

In the season campsites within the provincial parks are hard to find and this decision to charge a fee on the third and subsequent nights will give more people a chance to use the parks.

A good many people have enjoyed really cheap holidays, literally at the expense of others, in camping free for long periods.

Others have selfishly camped for one weekend and left their tents erected so that friends might use them mid-week and the owners come back the following weekend to a reserved campsite.

In the meantime, other would-be campers have found sites apparently occupied and have been unable to get camping room.

With two nights free and $2 on subsequent nights, camping is still a cheap holiday.

Now more people will be able to enjoy the fine facilities of B.C.'s parks.

SENATE RIGHTS ON TAX BILLS CRUX OF ISSUE

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Are tax measures the sole prerogative of the elected representatives of the people under Canada's system of parliamentary government?

That's the basis of the current struggle between the Commons and the Senate over a government tariff measure. The Commons, through the Conservative government, contends it has the sole right to levy taxation—and the Senate, in which the Liberals have the majority, lacks authority to amend a tax measure in any way.

The Senate concedes that the Commons has the sole right to levy taxation, but the Liberal majority contends that in amending the tariff bill to permit appeals to the tariff board against decisions of the revenue minister it was not in any way infringing on tax rights.

The situation is now that the Senate amended a Commons bill and sent it back to the Commons. The Commons rejected the amendment and sent the bill back to the Senate, where it comes up today.

The supremacy of the Commons in taxation laws is a principle which the United Kingdom House of Commons established beyond question in 1911 after 233 years of struggles with the House of Lords.

The Senate of Canada, whose members are appointed by the government of the day for life-long terms, and the appointed and hereditary House of Lords, are among the few remaining legislative bodies of their kind in the democratic world.

The Senate was envisaged by the fathers of Confederation as a legislative safeguard against rash, precipitate action by the popularly-elected Commons.

'Sober Second Thought In Legislation'

Two years before Confederation in 1867, Sir John A. Macdonald said the Senate of Canada would be the controlling and regulating—but not the initiating—branch of Parliament. "In the upper House," said the first prime minister of the country in the discussions leading to Confederation, "we have the sober second thought in legislation."

The British North America Act stated simply: "Bills for appropriating any part of the public revenue or for imposing any tax or impost, shall originate in the House of Commons."

Rule 63 of the Canadian House of Commons says: "All bills and supplies granted to her majesty by the Parliament of Canada are the sole gift of the House of Commons."

This rule is based on the preface to a United Kingdom Commons resolution in 1678, which asserted:

"It is the undoubted right of the Commons to direct, limit and appoint in such bills for the granting of aids and supplies to the Crown; the ends, purposes, considerations, limitations and qualifications of such grants, which ought not to be changed or altered by the House of Lords."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker cited the U.K. resolution as he argued in the Commons that the same conditions must apply to revenue-raising measures as revenue-spending measures. The tariff bill was clearly a tax revenue measure.

The last time a taxation bill was amended by the Senate, only to have the amendment rejected by the Commons, was in 1934. The Senate then had amended an excise tax bill, and the Commons refused to agree.

In the 1934 case, the Senate insisted on its amendment and parliamentary sources suggested the Senate may follow that course again today.

Under parliamentary rules, when both Houses have declared their refusal to budge a "free conference" of representatives of the two chambers can be held. That was done in 1934, and a compromise was reached.

But in the present case, Mr. Diefenbaker made it clear in the Commons Thursday, no compromise is contemplated and there will be no free conference.

Mr. Diefenbaker said, in effect, that if the Senate won't back down, the legislation will be dropped. Two consequences will follow: The Senate will be blamed for blocking beneficial legislation, and "sooner or later" the electors will be called on to voice their opinion on Senate reform.

NUCLEAR TEST TALKS

Each Side Trying To Get Other Blamed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some U.S. authorities think the latest exchange of charges between Russia and the United States indicates the Geneva negotiations for a nuclear weapons test ban may be at a dead end.

Officially, however, the United States is asking Russia to breathe new life into the negotiations that have dragged on for almost three years.

In Moscow Friday, the Soviet government accused the U.S. of trying to "justify, in the eyes of public opinion, the resumption of nuclear tests."

The U.S. fired back a charge that Russia was dodging the central issue of the negotiations—"whether the Soviet Union is now willing and pre-

WANTS TALKS MERGED

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has sought to merge the nuclear test ban talks with a proposed new multi-nation conference on general disarmament. President Kennedy has rejected this proposal.

The two powers appear to be engaged in a campaign to fix the blame for the failure of the prolonged Geneva talks, but neither will admit the conference has come to a dead end. Technically, it still is in session.

The Silent Electorate

NOW that (alas) the Fountain Controversy has died down to a mere miserable nothing, with both sides adopting a watchful attitude and letting their press agents go, Victoria has been keeping its eye peeled for something to get hot under the collar about.

Let us therefore render thanks and all praise to Millard Mooney, whose keen municipal eye has seen what was wanting, and whose stentorian aldermanic voice has sent forth the clarion call to arms.

Alderman Mooney's plan to turn Ross Bay Cemetery into a municipal campsite and charge the public $3.00 admission for the night is the sort of forward thinking which we expect of our civic fathers. It reminds one of the careful legislative proposals which were the hallmark of the Roman Senate in the days of the Roman Republic.

SILENUS

However, as with all schemes for human betterment, there are a number of carping critics. Did you ever hear of a critic who wasn't carping, by the way? Soon it will be all one word, like damn Yankee. But let us not digress into the semantic curiosities of the Pacific Slope. We are here to deal, once and for all, with those thesaurus people who are picking holes in the Alderman's splendid suggestion, who are turning his fine plan into a controversial issue.

Not that us citizens should not take sides; we should, and the more the better. But let us not carp about such trifles as long leases and solemn covenants.

This column, of course, remains strictly neutral. It takes the position of a live person whose interest in Ross Bay Cemetery (for the time being, in any event) is purely academic. It has, though, received representations from a considerable, but neglected class of citizens, whose appearance upon the municipal voters' list is sporadic, if not totally unheard of since the day of good old Mayor... dear me, his name escapes me.

These good people, of course, are the occupants of the cemetery; and this column would remind those who would lay violent hands upon their funerary monuments that they have voted in the past, and might even vote again.

WAR SCARE OVER BERLIN 'TONED DOWN' BY KENNEDY

WASHINGTON (Reuters)

Apparently concerned at the crisis atmosphere building up over the Berlin issue, the Kennedy administration took steps Friday to bring the matter into some perspective.

Reports which bore all the marks of being officially inspired sought to play down the idea that the United States would automatically go to war if the Soviet Union signed a peace treaty with East Germany.

In fact, diplomatic observers commented, there had never been any such intention.

Nevertheless, the administration has presumably thought it fit to cut off speculation and conjecture creeping into discussions of the Berlin problem which tended to suggest that military action was inevitable by the end of the year.

Reliable informants said that President Kennedy foresees a series of alarms between now and the end of the year over Berlin, all short of war. He believes that war is not inevitable and can be avoided if the Soviet makes no miscalculation about western intentions.

TOUGH ATTITUDE

There has been considerable talk in the last two weeks, largely with administration encouragement, about military moves, including partial mobilization. The government may now have become concerned about creating too tough a public attitude which could be inhibiting in any future negotiations with the Soviet Union.

High government sources were quoted Friday as saying that suggestions that the U.S. might mobilize 1,000,000 men as a warning to Premier Khrushchev should be treated with scepticism.

That does not rule out, however, the fact that the government is considering strengthening the Western military posture in case things should go wrong over Berlin.

Authoritative sources said an immediate aim of the president and his advisers is to convince Khrushchev not to make any miscalculations about Western determination to stand up for Allied rights in Berlin.

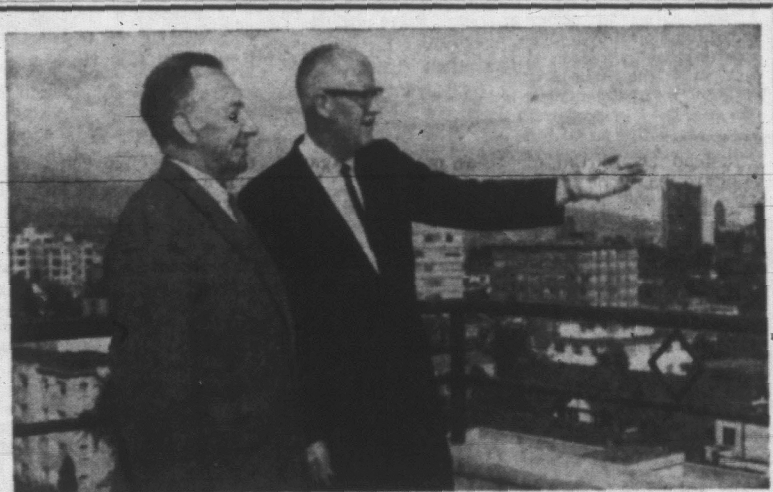

The president, informants said, wants Khrushchev to know he is not bluffing when he says Allied commitments in Berlin will be carried out.

WEEKEND WEATHER PICTURE ACROSS CANADA

SYNOPSIS—Cloudy showery weather has left the B.C. interior and moved this morning into the Peace River area. A ridge of high pressure, meanwhile, has become well established over southern and central B.C. bringing sunny warm weather that should persist for the next few days. A small disturbance is giving cloudiness and a few showers to the far northern coast but this system will be deflected northward so that little more effect will be felt from it.

MRS. DENES DEVENYI — a painter. Camera portrait by her husband from one-man show, "The Artist Observed" currently at Victoria Art Gallery.

ART IN REVIEW By ARTHUR CORRY

Gallery Offers Trio of Fine Shows

The Artist Observed, at the Art Gallery, July 4th to July 23, is an outstanding photographic exhibition, and a valuable record in portraits of B.C. artists.

Denes Devenyi, with rare artistic skill, has captured in each of his subjects that intimate perception of character, and by ingenious means has produced the essence of the individual in a black and white print.

It is only five years since Mrs. Devenyi came to Canada from Hungary and although he began to exhibit in 1955, he has achieved his greatest success since arriving in B.C. As a student at UBC, and later as a member of the Victoria Camera Club, he was recipient of several awards. Recently, at the North West Photographic Salon in Puyallup, he received a gold medal for portraiture.

Corry

Publication of his work has been extensive, beginning with news pictures for the Victoria Times. A portrait of his daughter in the Canadian Photographer monthly, and quite recently a cover for the Star Weekly, are but a few of his achievements.

This display merits close study and will also prove most enjoyable. Here is a young man to watch. His tremendous creative power and ability to take the right picture at the right time is likely to win a prominent place for him among top Canadian photographers.

In conjunction with this exhibit the Point Group, for the first time at the Art Gallery, are showing a collection of excellent paintings and sketches. On completion of this display the entire show will go on an extensive tour of Western Canadian galleries.

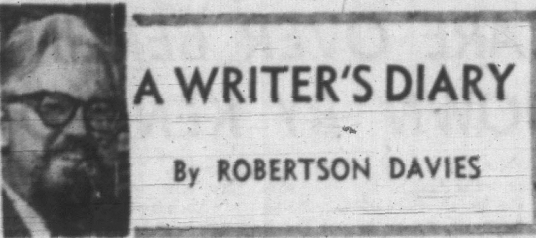

A comprehensive report on this display will appear in this column next week.

Examples of painting from the adult classes in Chinese brush techniques are now on view, and as arranged in groups of work by each student, show the most amazing results. Here novices, with only ten lessons and very often never having had a brush in their hands before, have created some very effective paintings.

The instructor of this class, Stephen Lowe, is a master of the fine art of his technique, and tradition dictates the style to be handed from teacher to student, with strict adherence to time-honored color, form, and line.

Mr. Lowe has one of his own fine scrolls on display. His new classes which begin the last week of September, are now open for registration.

In the fall Mr. Lowe will exhibit, in a one-man show at the Gallery, a collection of his own work, showing his excellent skill and the fine art of his brush technique.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

It is most unlikely that anyone who sees this column has recently read anything from the pen of Theodore Hook. Hugely popular as he was in his own day, Hook is now quite unknown; nobody reads him except people like myself, who like to rummage in the rubbish heaps of literature. And indeed, I had forgotten about Hook for years, until yesterday my eye happened to light on a reference to Berners Street.

Berners Street is a short, unremarkable thoroughfare in East London. One morning in 1809 it began to be crowded with people, carriages, vans and messengers, all of them attempting to get to one small, neat, but unremarkable house.

High and Low, All Were Hoaxed

As the day wore on the crowding became very serious, and celebrities of every sort joined the mob; the Governor of the Bank of England was there, waving a letter which told him that, if he called at the house in question a fraud on the Bank would be revealed.

The Chairman of the East India Company came, with a letter of similar import; the Archbishop of Canterbury arrived, summoned by a mysterious message written on excellent paper; the Duke of Gloucester, then Commander-in-Chief, arrived in answer to a letter purporting to be from a former confidential servant of his mother, who was dying and had something of importance to tell him; finally the Lord Mayor of London appeared.

All these grandees were battling with a crowd of men who were trying to deliver coal, harpsichords, barrels of beer and merchandise of all kinds. It took hours to untangle the traffic. It was clear that somebody had perpetrated a gigantic hoax.

Greatest Musical Improvisor

His attraction for high society was his abounding wit. He was a master of repartee. Nor was table-talk his only accomplishment. He would, on request, sit down at the piano and improvise a song in which he managed to ring in the names of every person present, and make puns on them.

Once it was thought that Hook was stumped, for there was a Danish gentleman present with the difficult name of Rosenagen. But Hook left the Dane to the last, and ended his song thus:

Literary Grants For Brian Moore

Brian Moore, who won the Governor-General's English-language fiction award for The Luck of Ginger Coffey (Little-Brown), has been given a $2,000 grant for literature by the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

The Irish-born Canadian author has also received a Canada Council fellowship.

HOBBY SHELF

(Available at Public Library or through local bookstores)

The World's Warships, R. V. Blackman.

The A.B.C. of Dahlias, W. E. Shewell-Cooper.

The Complete Electric Skill-Frypan Cookbook, Nedda Anders.

Wonderful Ways with Chicken, Ruth Martin.

Over the Drawing Board, Robert Forman.

Hoaxes like the Berners Street affair, were only one of his specialties. We have lost our taste for elaborate practical jokes now, and it is no great loss.

Mrs. Tottenham, the widow who lived in the house Hook fastened upon, was never quite well after her day of unsought notoriety.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

As of now we have launched, or are about to launch in Canada, two fine arts festivals that have become renowned wherever in the world such events are thought about and discussed.

In Stratford the "finest group of classical actors in North America," to quote Brooks Atkinson, is serving up lavish Shakespeare with side dishes of Brahms, Bach, Richard Strauss and Gilbert and Sullivan.

Majesty and thrills of the most gigantic searchlight military tattoo in history will next Friday open the musical-dramatic section of the Vancouver International Festival with a fanfare unrivaled anywhere in the world.

It is a matter of plain fact—often stated by non-Canadians—that these two events, plus the work of the National Film Board, have done more to enhance Canada's reputation among metropolitan circles abroad, than any other aspect of our national life.

The Vancouver Festival is many years' younger than Stratford's and may not yet be as thoroughly established in reputation. But with no fewer than five important North American premieres to its credit this year, it will have made a long stride toward maturity.

Not All the Actors Are On Stage

If you are a one-event visitor to the festivals, you miss half the fun and interest of these extravaganzas.

For one thing, the artists are not the only performers by any means. Many and some of the quietest are to be found and observed around theatre-foyers and hotel lobbies and dining rooms.

That delightful year when I spent my summer holiday at Stratford, for example—the memorable actors were not all disposing themselves on the apron stage.

A pair of delightful off-stage hams provided me with some of the best comedy relief of the entire experience. There was the towering red-headed who was self-constituted king of the press room. Among the journalistic types my impression was that he

In Black, 'Bubbles' Was Frilly

They must have been better word-pictures than I realized, for the name fitted. She bubbled with enthusiasms—for the plays, the players, her fellow journalists, for Sir Saville and Lady Garner who were present that year, "Such charming people, my dear—he's the high commissioner, you know—they're GREAT friends of mine."

She was one of the few people I have ever known who managed to be frilly in black. She wore her elderly but still golden hair in a riot of curls about her scalp.

Conversation gushed and foamed from her lips in a torrent of great pearly round bubbles and the activity of her hands and arms was only, excelled by her tongue.

We were staying at the same hotel and I was introduced to her the first day in the dining

'WHAT A FACE... WHAT A FUTURE!'

Lolo, Loren, Look to Laurels Here Comes 'La Cardinale'

By ALAN HARVEY (CP Staff Writer)
PARIS (CP) — Keep your eye peeled for lovely Claudia Cardinale.

She's the latest in a long line of Latin beauties, and she may make Gina Lollobrigida and Sophia Loren look to their laurels.

A critic for the Paris paper Le Figaro saw her in action at the Cannes film festival and was so impressed he gave her a special notice on the front page.

And the Paris weekly L'Express, reviewing her performance in "La Vierge," says of the 22-year-old Miss Cardinale:

"A great actress? Not yet, perhaps. Her emotional effects tend to be fabricated, not real."

"But under the glycerine tears, what a beautiful face, what sensual splendor, what a future!"

Miss Cardinale, born in Tunisia of an Italian family, now lives in Rome. She flashed into prominence in 1957 when she won a competition organized by an Italian film company to find the most beautiful Italian living in Tunisia.

GETS BIG BUILDUP

In the last year or two, aided by a big publicity campaign, she has really begun to attract attention on the continent, though probably little known in North America.

Her recent films—all given

CLAUDIA CARDINALE
... queen of the raves

excellent reviews—include "Rocco and His Brothers," "Napoleon at Austerlitz" and "La Ragazza con Valigia" (Girl With a Suitcase).

She has also appeared with French star Alain Delon in Rene Clement's film "Quelle Joie de Vivre," for which no English title has been chosen. In "La Vierge" she plays opposite another young French star, Jean-Paul Belmondo.

The film has been playing in two Parisian movie houses. But only one copy was available in Paris because of censorship difficulties in Italy, so a taxi had to be used to transport it from one cinema to the other and back again.

Some cinema critics say Italian film interests are counting on the shapely Miss Cardinale to take over from Loren and Lollobrigida, who are considered in some European circles to be "too Americanized."

Big Men of Action, On Wain Says Wayne

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) —

Actor John Wayne was relaxing on the Hatari set and talking again about The Alamo.

It will earn a profit despite the scoffers, he said. "The latest figure is a world gross of $17,000,000 and it may go higher. It's doing fantastic business in Japan, also in Scandinavia and England. Over here, it's doing fine."

"The way it looks now, we will all make a little profit. Not much, but some. I'm happy not only because I had my own dough in the picture for the first time. I talked my friends into investing, too. I was sweatin' it out for those Texans who backed me."

"I took a chance and I'm glad of it. I went against the trend and showed Americans as heroes. I could have showed them as heels, but I didn't want to."

WOULD HE?

Would he wear the three hats of producer-director-star again?

"You bet. I had a ball. But he'll follow others' directions this year. He does 'The Comancheros' for Fox, then returns to Paramount for a film with John Ford—I dunno much about it, but when Ford wants me for a picture, I'm there."

All these pictures call for the kind of big man of action Wayne epitomizes. He admitted that the ranks of stars in that category are thinning. "There aren't many of us left," he said, "and not many coming up. I think Jim Garner has the potential and this guy who went into television—Brian Keith."

CHANGE VOICES ONLY

"But the young actors nowadays don't have the studios behind them, to bring them along and put them in picture after picture. And too many of them change characters just like they were in radio—by changing their voice only."

"Some critics claimed that guys like Gable, Cooper and Stewart and me were always playing ourselves. Baloney!"

"Sure, there's something of ourselves in it, but we also get into the character. We become the character."

"The trouble with some of these new actors is they're more concerned with what their psychiatrists think of their roles."

MOVING ABOUT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Young actress Vicki Trickett gets around for movies. She went to Mexico for "Pepe," to Hawaii for "Gidget Goes Hawaiian" to England for "Blood River."

GERMAN GIFT TO NEW 'MET'

NEW YORK (AP) — West Germany Thursday donated $2,500,000 to the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts. The money—first such gift from a foreign government—will be earmarked for the new state of the Metropolitan Opera. The Lincoln Center, now being built in midtown Manhattan, is expected to cost $142,000,000.

John Goult Again Heads G and S Group

At their recent annual general meeting, Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Society re-elected John Goult as president. Other officers are Ellis Todd, vice president; Janet Senior, secretary; Gwynedd Hughes, assistant secretary; John Southworth, treasurer.

On the advisory board are Peggy Dyson, Margaret Duff, Evelyn Rogers, Jim Mead, Robins, Ross Hartnell and Frank Brawn.

Best-Actor Award

PARIS (Reuters) — British actor Albert Finney Friday night received the best actor award of the fifth Paris International Festival of the Theatre des Nations. He played the title role in John Osborne's new play, "Luther," presented here Thursday night.

Liz Going to Moscow

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor and husband Eddie Fisher will represent the United States at the Moscow Film Festival. A spokesman said Friday they will fly to Russia Sunday. The couple were asked by the U.S. state department to attend the festival.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peggy Castle, who co-stars with John Russell and Peter Brown in the TV series, "Lawman," began her professional career on a radio soap opera called "Today's Children."

Australia Builds for Art As Lotteries Foot the Bill

By R. L. CURTHOYS

MELBOURNE—Rivals in all projects in Australia, Sydney and Melbourne each are erecting a group of buildings that will enrich immensely their enjoyment of the arts. Sydney, at present, is holding a big lead.

Its opera house, on which work began just two years ago, is rapidly taking shape.

The location is on Bening Point, a superb promontory site, jutting into the harbor a stone's throw from the heart of the city.

Baringly designed by a Danish architect, Joern Utzon, the opera house will look, when it is finished, rather like the gleaming carapace of some strange sea creature washed up on the shores of Sydney Cove.

Confident

In Melbourne, work begins in August on a splendid (if ineptly named) cultural centre. It will rise on a 7½-acre site facing the triple spires of St. Paul's Cathedral, right at the gateway to the city.

Originally estimated to cost $5,600,000, the Sydney opera house is now likely to require an outlay of nearly $15 millions. Pessimists think the final count will be nearer $22 millions.

The New South Wales government, however, is confident of its ability to foot the bill. The reason is that apart from generous private donations, the work is being financed by a series of gigantic lotteries, the first prize in each of which is $225,000.

Thus far the lotteries have raised over $5 millions. If the job is finished in 1964, as expected, they will have yielded nearly $12 millions.

Government Loan

In Melbourne, the public will be asked in August and September to give $2,225,000 toward the cost of the cultural centre.

Its estimated cost is $12,500,000, of which $1,600,000 has already been promised. The rest of the money will come from the Victorian government and from a government-guaranteed loan.

The Sydney opera house will be a fourfold entity, capable of housing simultaneously an opera, two plays and a chamber-music concert or a large concert, a small opera and a recital.

It will have more in common with the Lincoln Centre in New York than with the single-purpose opera house of tradition.

The main auditorium, when used for concerts (which command more support in Sydney than opera) will seat 2,800. It will have no balcony or circle, the seats rising in a single slope.

When the Sydney symphony orchestra appears by itself, the stage will accommodate 110 players.

For a choral concert, with 200-odd singers sharing the stage, the 300 chairs will be removed and the vacated part of the floor will be raised by mechanically operated lifts to provide an extended stage.

Central Staging

For any larger combination of players and singers more of the floor will rise to become stage. Thus the lifts will facilitate an almost inexhaustible variety of seating arrangements. Even in the middle of the hall a section will be constructed so that it can be raised.

It would thus be able to seat an orchestra or a group of players on a central platform with the audience sloping away from it, or to provide a theatre-in-the-round.

When all the lifts have been used to provide stage space, 1,100 seats will have been removed, nearly half the floor of the auditorium will have passed from the use of the audience to the use of the performers and the hall will have become an opera house.

It will then have a stage, terraced, if necessary, measuring 100 feet by 100 feet—slightly bigger than that of the Vienna Opera and much bigger than Covent Garden's.

An orchestra pit holding 110 players will lie under the lip of the stage and the orchestra will be seated more or less under the stage, according to the desire of the conductor.

Intimate Style

In the second hall, seating 1,250, no seat will be more than 67 feet from the front of the stage. Not flexible in function, it will be first and foremost a theatre, suitable for intimate operas or plays of almost any magnitude.

Under the main hall will be a little theatre suitable for revues, for the use of small theatre groups. The fourth auditorium will be simply a room, with movable platform and no other stage facilities.

Melbourne's cultural centre, which will take at least four years to build, will house a splendid art gallery, an art school and three auditoriums.

The art gallery of three stories will have three courts to house statuary and will be surrounded by a moat of flowing water containing fountains and underwater statuary.

The buildings will be roofed with copper and topped by a copper spire, 415 feet high, tipped with gold. Its base will house a restaurant and three auditoriums. The largest, seating 1,200, will be suitable for opera, ballet or large concerts. The second largest, with a capacity of 1,000, could be used for recitals, lectures or meetings. The smallest auditorium will have a seating capacity of 300. An underground car park will hold 3,000 automobiles.

Brief Training No Coaching For Net Team

Victoria's Susan Butt, top-ranked women's singles player in Canada, is currently on a tennis tour in Europe. While on tour, Miss Butt is writing a series of articles for The Daily Times. Here, she writes from Wimbledon, England.

By SUSAN BUTT

WIMBLEDON — Canada has been trying to produce a successful Davis Cup team for a long time. But the boys always bow out after one or two rounds.

Tennis talent abounds in Canada and the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association spends all its funds on what it calls "the organization and development of a Davis Cup team."

Yet the team never puts up a good fight against the United States—if it gets that far—and often falls ignominiously in earlier rounds.

Sensible leadership and common sense in development are what Canada's Davis Cup team lacks.

One example of the haphazard organization is the current European tour of the team.

Bob Bedard, 29, of Sherbrooke, Que., who is Canada's top man player heads the list of team members. He is a veteran of Davis Cup play and can usually be counted on to put up a good fight against any world-ranking player, even if he doesn't win.

Vacant Spots In Tournament Slate

These are the players who will represent Canada against Mexico in the Davis Cup tie, to be held in Eastern Canada at the end of this month.

In preparation, Canadian tennis officials decided to get the boys some practice.

They bought them plane tickets to Europe, gave them $10 a day for expenses and said good-bye to John and Francois in May. Bedard was to follow a month later when school was out.

The tour had been partially set up by the CLTA. John and Francois were to play the French championships from May 16 to 28, Barcelona from June 5 to 10 and Wimbledon from June 26 to July 8.

This left three weeks unfilled in their tournament schedule. A fourth vacant week remained during the second half of the French championships if they lost in the early rounds, and a five week if they stayed in Europe for another week after Wimbledon.

These weeks were to be filled with tournaments by Francois, who was to make arrangements upon his arrival in Europe.

Other instructions given the team were that because the Davis Cup tie was to be held on clay, they were not to play any grass court tournaments other than Wimbledon.

Now any tennis official should realize that a tennis tour cannot be set up days ahead. It takes weeks or months.

Francois and John have already spent two weeks of their short tour without playing a tournament. They found it impossible to make arrangements at that late date.

They did manage a clay court tournament in Milan, Italy, a week before Wimbledon.

Arrived Just In Time for Matches

Swann faced another two weeks without a tournament as his entry was not accepted at Wimbledon.

Many players come to England a month before Wimbledon to practice on grass.

One week on grass seems to be the standard minimum before the Wimbledon tournament. The courts are crowded with players fervently practicing for the unofficial world championships.

The dream of every tennis player is to do well at Wimbledon and the wish of every country is to be well represented.

No so of Canada—the boys were in Milan, practising on clay.

After Milan the Canadians had time for landing at the airport, driving across London, a quick change and a quick lunch before their first Wimbledon matches.

When Francois stepped on the court the first thing I noticed was his running shoes still stained with the red clay of Milan against the emerald grass of Wimbledon.

As the match began it was obvious Francois did not have the feel of the grass. He lost

Colts Clipped

LONDON (Reuters) — The touring Canadian Colts cricket team lost by 77 runs to Felsled School Thursday.

Two batsmen contributed 208 of Felsled's total of 248 for six declared. D. A. Dunn made 110 and J. J. Nokes 98.

In reply, the tourists were bowled out for 171, of which S. E. Bask scored 55.

England in Front; Six Wickets Left

LEEDS, England (AP) — England took a one-run lead over Australia Friday after the second day of the third cricket test at Headingley.

At the close of play, England was 238 for four wickets in reply to Australia's first innings total of 237.

England's top scorer was Colin Cowdrey, relegated from the captaincy in favor of Peter May, who hit 93 before being caught at the wicket. He was well supported by the opening pair, Geoff Pullar, 53, and Subba Row, 35. May made 26.

MACKENZIE REPEATS

Precise Soviets Row to Victory

HENLEY, England (CP) — The rowing eight of the Soviet Union won the Grand Challenge Cup, the senior trophy of the Henley regatta today.

The Soviet oarsmen beat the crew of the Leander Club of Britain by one length in a time of 6:43.

The Russians rowed a race of beautiful precision, the oarsmen moving as one man. They took the lead in the first hundred yards and never relinquished it, although midway through the course Leander narrowed the distance slightly.

WELL OVER RECORD
The Soviets' time was 13 seconds over the record for the event, 6:30, which was set by a powerful crew of Cornell University in 1957.

Australia's Stuart MacKenzie won the prized Diamond Sculls for the fifth straight time, easily defeating Russia's Oleg Tjurin.

MacKenzie, a 24-year-old chicken farmer, became the first sculler this century to win the title five times.

MacKenzie, a great clown in an easy race, produced no antics today. There was a time in the past when he stopped his shell outside Henley's crowded enclosures and raised his hat to the umpires in mid-race.

But against Tjurin, he rowed a purposeful race from the start and was never headed, winning by 2 1/2 lengths.

WIN DOUBLE SCULLS
Britain also swept the double sculls from the Russians as the same pair who set the Henley record in winning last year made it two in a row.

George Justice and Norm Birkmyre, decisively beat Alexander Berkutov and Yuri Tukblov. The Britons won by almost two lengths.

Fans Snap Up Tickets For Leos' Squad Game

(Special to the Times)
COURTENAY — The largest crowd ever to watch the RC Lions play their annual inter-squad game is expected to show up when this year's of the enthusiastic way in which this Vancouver Island community has taken the Lions' members of the Western Football Conference, to its heart.

The weather, however, has been far from co-operative. With more rain on Friday, the town was forced to shift the Lions from Lewis Field to Woodcock Field as the turf at the first park became too slippery to work out upon.

The new field is in excellent shape, and should satisfy the Lions for the remainder of their two-week stay. The inter-squad game, however, will still be at Lewis Field.

The Cats hardly moved onto the new playing surface when coach Wayne Robinson had his charges running through a stiff workout involving a unique drill developed at the University of Washington.

MAN-TO-MAN CLASHES
In the drill, one lineman faces another while the ball is snapped and a back tries to shoot through a narrow gap on either side of the defensive player.

It gave the linemen a chance to display their talents and brought forth a number of interesting man-to-man encounters.

Perhaps the most noteworthy involved veteran Tom Hinton and college star Tom Brown. Hinton won five of the standard six tries, three on defence and three on offence.

Other standouts were Frank Gilliam, Ed O'Bradovich, Joe Wendryhosi, Mike Cacic and Steve Cotter.

Victory moved them into a tie for top spot with Maycock Optical.

Tony Gee led the attack with four singles and a double in six trips.

Bye Bye BOGIES

Timing on Putts
Putting requires the same fine timing as any of the longer shots.

When timing goes off on the green, frequently it is because the player is "picking up" the club on the backswing instead of letting both hands take it directly back on the line at the proper speed.

The reason for this usually is that the golfer's left hand has slid off to the left. By turning the left hand more toward the top, where it is supposed to be when putting, you will get back on the right path.

I always putt with the weight a bit forward.

I concentrate on getting the right clubhead speed to carry the ball hole high and try to take the putter back with both hands directly on the line.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Sweet peas will continue flowering over a long period. If given weak solution of fertilizer each week. Old flower stems must be removed before pods set seed.

Tuberous begonias in pots will benefit from similar feeding. The fertilizer should be balanced, such as 1-1-1 analysis.

If carnations are to be layered, now is the time to peg the stems into a mound of sandy compost, where they will root and be ready to move to their own quarters by about the end of August.

Cut stems of spent flowers from perennials such as peony, delphinium, lupin, iris. Do not remove leaves, as they carry on the work of feeding the plants, which should be kept well watered all summer.

Christmas house plants need to be kept growing well with attention to potting, watering and feeding.

Sow seed of stump-rooted carrots, small round beets, purple top turnip, and Flowers-of-Spring cabbage.

Friendly Wood Most Popular

Timelessness is a quality of wood that few other materials possess. Wood has been in style throughout man's history, because wood not only endures, but also grows richer and more beautiful with age.

The serenity of the forest, the magnificence of creation, as symbolized in the wood church, make worship more meaningful.

Some ancient churches of timber construction are still in use after 1,200 years.

Elegance and comfort are the hallmarks of wood in every era. Walls, doors and floors of wood reflect deep beauty with the simplest of care.

Wood furniture invites pleasant relaxation... wood ceilings and beams help surround our living with the familiar friendliness of a natural material.

Wood kitchen cabinets are widely preferred for their beauty... their compatibility with appliances in color.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Winter Vegetable Patch Should Be Planned Now

By JACK BEASTALL

If you have time in the coming week, take a critical look at the vegetable garden. If you have no vegetable garden, take time to prepare a piece of ground with the view of having one this fall.

Most of the early vegetable sowings will have been used up now, although there may be a few peas left on the vines and the odd vegetable in a row.

Try in every way possible to use these tag ends during the week as far as to have clear spaces that can be sown ready for the mid-summer sowings around the middle of the month.

At the same time, pick out the space for the fall, winter and spring greens which are set out by the end of the month. These will include the autumn cauliflower, sprouting broccoli, small round-head cabbage, large Savoy cabbage, Brussels sprouts and kale.

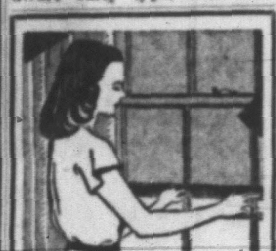

If there is any choice at all, it is wise to put the winter and spring greens close to the path where they are easily accessible without sinking into a sea of mud. As long as the task of gathering them is pleasant they will be freely used.

WINTER GREENS

Newcomers to Victoria and district may not know we are able to plant almost an entire vegetable garden in mid-July and enjoy fresh from the garden vegetables right through the fall, with parsnips, leeks and an assortment of greens left for the winter.

All that is needed is to have the ground in readiness and to choose the right varieties of seeds.

For peas you will need a dwarf early type, and short early carrots. There are several varieties in this class but be sure to avoid the main crop types which need longer to mature.

Purple-top Laurentian type turnips are sown now whether a complete fall garden is contemplated or not. These grow rapidly and are used in September when the size of tennis balls.

The Detroit strain of round beets will do well, the thinning being used as beet greens. The small roots from this sowing are excellent for bottling or canning, and the rest are used while small so that the row is cleared before frost.

YEAR-ROUND LETTUCE
All the year-round lettuce will head quickly if sown now, and a little protection from the early frosts will extend the cutting season into November. A sowing of the same variety around the first of August, the seedlings being transplanted to a cold frame, will bridge the gap to Christmas.

Incidentally, the so-called winter lettuce for growing under cloches, in cold frames, or in an unheated greenhouse, are sown in early September. These give leaf lettuce from February on and head up rapidly in May. The varieties are Stanstead Park, May King or May Queen.

Attractive is the name of the one now popular in England for winter growing, and it should prove of value here if seed can be obtained locally.

It is fun to try a row of early potatoes now, although it is sometimes a problem to find seed tubers. New potatoes and green peas in fall are an unexpected treat, and it saves the maincrop potatoes for winter use.

FOR FLAVOR

Spinach may be any quick maturing round-seeded variety and a small sowing of round radish will be included in some gardens. A sowing of bunching onions can be made to eat with the lettuce and radishes, or used for flavoring the early soups and stews.

In locations where the date of the first frost is in October, a sowing of the quickest maturing bush beans can be made. Picked while small and young, they surpass in flavor many of the maincrop varieties and add a pleasing variety to fall meals.

Although the fall vegetable garden is sown at the warmest part of the year, the days will be shorter and the temperatures lower as the plants are in full growth. This is one reason for selecting the same varieties as used in the early spring sowings since conditions in general will be comparable.

It is safe to figure that any variety which will mature in 75 days or less will be successful in most years.

RAPID GROWTH

Germination at this time of year is much faster than in spring, some vegetables being through the soil in 48 to 72 hours, but the difficulty in some soils will be to hold sufficient moisture near the surface until the seedling roots have gained depth.

The common practice is to draw out the shallow drills and water them two or three times before the seed is sown, although on clay soils this causes baking and cracking which more than offsets the benefits of moisture.

To overcome the crust which forms on a clay soil, drills are made about two inches in depth and filled with screened compost, very old manure, or the fine grade of terralite which is the horticultural form of vermiculite. The seeds are sown directly into the filler and lightly covered with the same material.

Pests, especially slugs and earwigs, delight in these July sowings and soon spread the news to their cousins and their aunts (whom they reckon up by dozens) that midnight picnics are in order.

The earwigs which live out our way have a profound dislike for chlordane, so I spray it over the drills after seeding, and again over the seedlings as they break the soil.

As for the slugs, if they are troublesome in your district you will find that a metaldehyde slug bait scattered around will give them far more pleasure than green stuff, and will save the seedlings at the same time.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. My aster plants all died after I planted them this spring, and so did the replacements. Can you tell me why? John K., Victoria.

A. Without knowing all the conditions it is not possible to hazard a guess, but here are a few pointers which may give you a clue. Asters do not like root disturbance, so should be moved from the growing flat, or pack, with as much soil as possible. The plants should be stocky, of good color when purchased, and be put into the ground immediately.

The soil around the roots should be damp, but not kept wet unless the soil is sandy. The leaves should be sprayed with water frequently during the first few days after planting if weather is warm, or windy.

When asters die after they are growing well, the cause can be earwigs consuming the leaves, or aster wilt fungus in the soil. If the latter, better take extra care in planting without root disturbance, and use an entirely different piece of ground next time.

Be Informed Before Buying

In buying a new home, most of us are slightly terrified of plumbing the technical depths of such things as insulation, heating, plumbing and electrical systems to find out if we're getting our due.

We're well aware that a house is a mighty complex assemblage of this and that, and we're quite happy to leave it to our trusty builder to look after our interests.

But even the least mechanically-minded of us should at least know what we're getting, and what guarantees or assurances are attached to it. After all, how else do we have a comeback if something goes wrong?

At best, we can risk driving our builder, plumber or electrician right up to the wall with our questions and complaints during the first year or so we are in the new place.

Let's face it—there are things we ought to know, and it's really not that hard to find out and digest the facts.

Plywood Lazy Susan For Patio, Playroom

Build a fir plywood round table for your recreation room or vacation home, and you will have a pleasing piece of furniture that will repay the effort in many different ways. It can be used by the children for work or play, fits easily into any room, and can "double up" as a patio table in summer.

Addition of a turntable and ball-bearing unit makes it even more useful and attractive as a Lazy Susan.

For the greatest stability, a double top hand-sawn from one panel of three-quarter water-proof glue fir plywood is recommended. Diameter of each piece is four feet, twice that of the turntable. The turntable is cut from the bottom piece.

Best way to saw out a perfect circle for a round table is to mount a pivot-point on which the stock rotates. An octagonal-shaped table top is an alternative which can be sawn with an ordinary hand saw.

Glue together the two top pieces after cutting out the final finish.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q. Recently I purchased a small home with a very low-pitched roof. There are no trees anywhere near the house and I find the inside gets extremely hot in summer. The roof is wood shingle, stained black. Is there any way I could treat it that would minimize the heat?—M.V.A.

A. A roof painted white reflects the sun's heat. Tests have shown that under-roof temperatures can be reduced as much as 20 degrees by painting the roof white. Check with your paint dealer on the best type of paint.

Rhodonite—good luck for Anton Haryluk

PROSPECTOR HITS IT

Sought Old Mine, Found Gem Rock

By DON INGHAM

A prospector who has been chasing Dame Fortune for most of his 51 years believes he has found her on Hill 60, between Duncan and Cowichan Lake.

"She" is a deposit of manganese silicate, a gem stone known to the trade as rhodonite, which finder Anton "Andy" Haryluk of Duncan hopes to sell to "rock hounds" for $1 per pound.

"I figure there are about 1,500,000 pounds in the vein," he said. "If it works out it will mean I won't have to run up and down any more hills looking for a prospect. I'm getting too old for that."

'Open Pit' Mine To Be Worked

"I was looking for the old mine in hopes that I would find some gem stone," Mr. Haryluk said. "I had a theory I was checking out, and pretty soon I was able to say 'well, well, well—what have we here?'—and there it was."

Surface dimensions of the outcropping, high on the hill north of Cowichan Lake Road, are about four by 100 feet. He expects good depth and will work it as an open-pit mine.

He staked six claims around the outcropping, has completed most of his negotiations with the E and N Railway, which owns the land, and is ready to start operating shortly under the name of Central Manganese Ltd.

It will produce manganese oxide, which is used in steel-making; manganese carbonate, or rhodochrosite, which has a market in chemical industries, and the rhodonite.

This rhodonite is a hard rock, predominantly pink, and shot through with veins of Unmarried, weatherbeaten, and filled with irrepressible optimism, he started prospecting 30 years ago in Manitoba, where he was born.

He worked west, and has been in B.C. 22 years and on Vancouver Island six years. He learned his business by reading, studying "in-night school" courses, working with geologists and engineers, prospecting, and "starving to death."

He came across this prospect while prowling the countryside to find a manganese oxide deposit which was worked for a short time during the First World War.

brown, white, black, yellow and green.

It is extremely popular with amateur lapidaries, who are growing in number, and who use this and other semi-precious stones in their hobby of making jewelry or merely cutting and polishing a particularly handsome piece of rock.

Mr. Haryluk said the Hill 60 rhodonite likely is the best in the world.

"There was a deposit in the Balkans, but it is just about played out," he said. "There is another in Australia, but the ore doesn't have the varied colors found here."

MORE INSTITUTIONS NEEDED

Brannen School 'Just an Oasis'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A CCF member of the legislature said Friday the Brannen Lake Industrial School at Nanaimo is "just an oasis in the desert."

Dave Barrett of Dewdney, a B.C. supervisor for the John Howard Society, described schools such as Brannen Lake as worthless.

He said there are no effective preventive measures to deal with juvenile offenders before admittance to the school, and little or no attention is given them after they leave.

"When the boys leave the school they just go back to the same environment that put them there in the first place."

LOCAL PROBLEM

"What is really needed is adequate prevention on the local community level where potential juvenile offenders can receive more personal and individual guidance than is possible in an industrial school."

He was commenting on remarks of Magistrate Gordon Scott that overcrowding at the school made it ineffective. He said sentences are too short for the school to do any good.

Nanaimo Magistrate Lionel Beaver-Potts suggested that the school would be more effective if it was under the jurisdiction of the attorney-general's department instead of the health and welfare department.

He said he only gives minimum sentences to the school because he feels the boys do not get proper training there.

Inner Harbor Despoiled —Conservation Council

The Conservation Council of Victoria has lodged a protest against construction of a Department of Transport building and dock on the Belleville Street side of the Inner Harbor, just west of the CPR dock.

In a letter to A. W. DeB. McPhillips, Victoria MP, the council's president, Kenneth McAllister, points out that the industrial reserve would be a more suitable location.

"My own observation is that the servicing of Department of Transport vessels entails a yard with large pieces of equipment scattered about," the letter states.

"This could by no stretch of the imagination improve the tidy and attractive vista of the inner harbor. Neither would a building of a size to equal $2,500,000. It could only crowd in on a small harbor, cutting out light and view."

MONTE ROBERTS

SALMON-WATCHERS ON TENTERHOOKS
—Headline in that there other paper.

Now, THERE'S a headline calculated to give one pause for thought.

In fact, I have paused to think about it ever since it appeared Friday morning.

Perhaps it isn't a think-making headline for such as you, but it surely is for me.

Because I am a watcher from 'way back.

I have dabbled in bird-watching. I have had some experience with the dog watch.

I am an inveterate log-boom watcher, and in the line of duty became an expert Juan-de-Fuca-Strait-swimmer-watcher.

I have been a passing-parade-watcher for many years; a falling-star-watcher of patience and persistence; a bulldozer-watcher of enthusiasm; a steepjack-watcher whose awe is matched only by his acrophobia.

Fire-watching, flood-watching and disaster-watching in general have been my avocation as well as vocation.

I have watched politicians politic, boxers box, footballers football, cliffhangers cliffhang, dancers dance, and logrollers log-roll.

But dag-nabbed if I have ever been a salmon-watcher. Especially a salmon-watcher on tenterhooks.

I don't think I have the qualifications to be a plain, ordinary salmon watcher, let alone a salmon-watcher on tenterhooks.

A plain, ordinary salmon watcher, I should imagine, would have to be very alert, agile, and able to hold his breath under water for long periods of time.

What it would be like to be alert, agile, and hold your breath under water while on tenterhooks is more than I can even imagine.

I think I will stick to more sedentary activities, such as log-boom-watching.

Salmon-watching I will leave to that there other paper, no matter how tenter the hook.

FIRST TO ACT

Power Boats Controlled By Oak Bay

Oak Bay is the first municipality in the area to take advantage of transport department regulations to control power-boating.

Sign posts have been set out at intervals off Willows Beach, the city's most popular urban swimming, sunning and boating place.

A series of float-mounted signboards have been moored in a line parallel to the Esplanade 200 yards offshore.

They read:

"Restricted area. Five miles an hour. No power boats shoreline of these signs."

The signs are aimed at irresponsible power boaters and water skiers whose gyrations close to the beach have endangered swimmers and even youngsters wading offshore.

LINE EXTENDED

The move was made possible by the extension last year of the municipal boundary to include waters within a line drawn between Oak Bay Boat-house and Cattle Point.

Chief Robert Smith said police will make special patrols of the area, at least during the summer.

He said enforcement of the boating regulations presents no problem. A power boat is available at all times through an agreement with the Boat-house lessee.

The signs are part of a $1,500 program at Willows, of which four new diving and swimming stages form the major item.

Three stages are anchored now and the fourth, to be set just off Willows Park, is being built.

Each 20 feet long and 12 feet wide, the stages are mounted on sections of cedar logs and were towed by Island Tug and Barge from B.G. Forger Products mill in the Inner Harbor.

'HAWKS' TO SPREAD WINGS OVER BEACON HILL

Repeat performance of popular, spectacular Golden Hawks, the RCAF's precision aerobatic team, is scheduled for the Victoria area starting at 2.30 p.m. Aug. 12, with Beacon Hill Park the focal point for the high-and-low altitude show. National Defence

Meeting Set For Monday On Road Plan

Representatives of 120 Cadboro Bay Road property owners will meet informally with Oak Bay council Monday night to hear details of proposed secondary highway improvements.

The municipality hopes to bring slightly more than 1½ miles of Cadboro Bay Road up to secondary standard by widening to 40 feet and installing curbs, gutter and sidewalks next year.

If the project meets with provincial government approval the municipality can expect up to 50 per cent cost-sharing.

30-YEAR PAYMENTS

It would be undertaken as a municipally-initiated local improvement, for which the property owners would be charged a share over a period of 30 years.

It is proposed to begin the improvement at Dalhousie, existing limit of concrete curbing, and end at the Saanich boundary just outside the northern Uplands gate.

Asphalt paving, concrete curbs and drainage would be laid the whole length. Concrete sidewalks — four feet wide — would be put on the west side from Dalhousie to Estevan; both sides from Estevan to Dufferin; the west side from Dufferin to Lansdowne, and on the east side from Cedar Hill Cross Road to Beach Drive.

HARD TO STOP

Estimated total cost of the work is $297,530, according to an engineering study. Oak Bay's share would be $244,730.

At least 50 per cent dissection is necessary to block the project.

Parts of Cadboro Bay Road are in poor condition and most of the portion referred to is barely wide enough for two cars to pass.

Summer School's Events Headed By Arab Lecture

Heading the list of special events to be presented at Victoria College during the summer session as extra-curricular activities is a lecture by Dr. Mohammad T. Mehdi.

Director of the Arab Information Centre in San Francisco and an assistant professor of Middle Eastern studies at the Academy of Asian Studies in the same city, he will give a public lecture Wednesday at the College.

The lecture, starting at 8 p.m. in the auditorium, will concern "The Middle East, between East and West."

Dr. Mehdi will be followed, July 19, by a twin bill of the noted Woodwind Quartet and artist Ulfert Wilke lecturing on Japanese art.

The quartet will perform in the auditorium at 12.30 p.m. and Mr. Wilke will lecture at 5 p.m. in the same hall.

July 28, the second dance of the session will be held from 9.30 to 12.30 p.m. in the Union Room, and Aug. 2 the Paganini Quartet will give a performance at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

FOR ONE HOUR'S FREEDOM

Four Months Added To Escapee's Term

A brief hour of freedom Thursday has cost a convict four months additional imprisonment.

Edwin Patrick Simpkins, 21, remained impassive when sentenced in Saanich police court today. He refused to say anything in his own defence.

The court was told Friday Simpkins fled from a car taking him from William Head minimum security institute to the mainland B.C. Penitentiary. He was recaptured by Saanich police near the intersection of Douglas Street and Trans-Canada Highway.

COULDN'T ADAPT

With two others, Simpkins was being moved from William Head because of his inability to adapt to the institution's vocational program designed to fit prisoners for release to the outside world.

His two-year sentence for housebreaking was due to expire in December. Simpkins was transferred from the penitentiary in January.

RECORD

His record, dating back to 1955, included a total of 13 years and three months, some running concurrently.

Offences included breaking and entering, theft, uttering forged documents, attempted armed robbery, forgery, possession of a stolen car, possession of burglary instruments and possession of stolen goods.

He surrendered to Saanich constables Charles Truett and John Post after being found lying in the grass of a vacant lot.

HOLLYWOOD TOUCH GIVEN POLICE CARS

The Broderick Crawford "Highway Patrol" look is being adopted by city police cars.

Following a recent police commission decision, four police cars will have their front doors painted white with the words "City Police" in black.

Although the RCMP and some departments in outlying areas adopted this system some time ago this will mark the first Victoria departure from plain black cars.

One prowler car is in the process of being painted now and two others, plus the traffic car, are expected to be done before the month's end.

2.9 MILLION CLAIMS ON HOSPITAL FUNDS

British Columbia's Hospital Insurance Service paid more than 2,900,000-claims at an estimated cost of $366,000,000 between Jan. 1, 1949, and June 30, 1961, Health Minister Eric Martin announced Friday.

"This is the equivalent of hospital bills totalling over $220 for each man, woman and child living in B.C. today," the minister said.

He added that a check of hospital admissions for 1959 indicated that 70 per cent of all patients were hospitalized under one of six major diagnostic categories:

Maternity; diseases of the circulatory system (accounting for one-third of all deaths); diseases of the digestive system; accidents, poisoning and violence; diseases of the respiratory system; benign and malignant neoplasms.

Mr. Martin said the major cause of lengthy hospitalization was degenerative and arterio-sclerotic heart disease, including coronary disease.

He revealed that almost 40 per cent of all hospital deaths occurred among patients of 75 years and over.

FROM THE PRESS GALLERY

Dr. Shrum Seen As Power Czar

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The stage is set for the B.C. government to create a single agency to control all the province's electric power resources, and to appoint one man to run it.

The man for the job is unquestionably Dr. Gordon Shrum.

At present he is chairman of the B.C. Energy Board and of the B.C. Research Council.

He retired at the end of last month as dean of graduate studies and head of the physics department at University of B.C.

He has also been employed by the government on numerous occasions, including conducting a dental technicians' inquiry and the power commission investigation of 1958.

What he will head is not certain: it could be a greatly-inflated energy board; it could be the B.C. Power Commission; or a completely new agency; or a new government department.

The move setting up such an authority is expected to be Premier Bennett's "bombshell" at the August legislative session.

What he will probably do is to enact legislation granting authority for a single agency of some kind to control power in B.C. He may wait a while before appointing its leader and defining its powers.

Takeover of the B.C. Electric and possibly other utilities would follow, not necessarily immediately. It is not necessary to enact legislation to expropriate a private utility. It can be done under the present Power Act.

While his grand design for a giant-power-grid exchanging energy across the border seems to be close to reality, it is extremely unlikely that the premier will go so far as to kill the entire international Columbia River treaty already signed by Canada and the U.S.

That treaty is Mr. Bennett's only guarantee that he will get any return from the U.S. on power developments undertaken in B.C.

It is vital to his policy of exporting power.

What he might do is engineer amendments to the treaty, which can be effected by exchange of notes between governments.

One can't help but feel that the whole proposition: taking over B.C. Electric; creating public power; making millions out of export, is as much politic as humanitarian.

If B.C. "nationalizes" power, that will be one in the eye for the CCF-New Party, who felt they had the only chance to beat Mr. Bennett in the next election. He would be lifting, from under their noses, their choicest platform plank.

The idea of a new government department of electrical energy and hydro resources has been kicked around by the cabinet for more than a year.

A cabinet source says that when first proposed it was regarded as premature, but a good idea for the future.

Key studies for the energy board report are being made by consulting firms in England.

It was after his return from a visit there that Dr. Shrum began to speak out publicly at home on power exports and integration of resources, despite the fact the board's final report isn't due until mid-August.

Did he get the word from the British firms, or did he give it to them?

SPLINTER SECTS WARNING

A warning to churchgoers to beware of religious "splinter sects" is given by Dean Brian Whitlow in the Sunday leaflet for Christ Church Cathedral.

He says these sects "usually originate from some fanatically-minded leader who takes some obscure text of Holy Scripture completely out of its text and then builds a fantastic superstructure on this slender foundation."

"Sometimes large numbers of people are attracted."

The Dean says "sturdy well-grounded churchpeople" should beware of such leaders and their sects.

CHURCH APPOINTMENTS

Prelate Cheered As Royal Favor Question Raised

LONDON (AP)—Dr. Michael Ramsey, the new Archbishop of Canterbury, has called for an "examination" of appointments by the Crown of England bishops and deans.

"There is now, undoubtedly, a desire within the Church for a new examination of this question," Dr. Ramsey told 700 clerics and laymen at the opening day of the Church Assembly.

He was making his first public pronouncement since his enthronement a week ago. He was given a tremendous ovation.

Boy Scout Jamboree Opened

OTTAWA (CP)—"Three cheers for the governor-general."

The cry rang out Friday for 2,700 Boy Scouts as their chief scout, Governor-General Vanier, officially opened the third Canadian Jamboree at nearby Connaught Barracks.

The reply was tremendous as the scouts waved their neckerchiefs and shouted approval of the wartime general.

Overhead RCAF jet planes formed the fleur-de-lis—worldwide symbol of scouting—for the youngsters gathered here from every province and the territories.

Their presence bore "witness to the deep and unshakable unity of Canada," said the governor-general.

He told the young Canadians and their visitors from the United States, Australia and Pakistan, to learn to lead themselves and they could be leaders of others.

Genuine appreciation of the sacrifice and triumph of Christ Jesus must be expressed in daily living.

This is a theme of the lesson-sermon on "Sacrament" to be presented at the semi-annual communion service in Christian Science churches Sunday.

Paul's charge to Timothy, "Watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry" (II Timothy, iv), will be included in the Bible readings.

A correlative citation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, states: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow His example, is our proper debt to Him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that He has done."

Metropolitan United Church will hold a vacation school July 17 to 28 for children of 4 to 11 years of age.

Sessions will be from 9:30 to 12 noon each day, Monday to Friday. There is a registration fee of $1.

MINERS WANT OWN PRIESTS IN BOLIVIA

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Union leaders at the "20th Century" tin mine demanded Friday night the removal within 12 hours of the Canadian Oblate Fathers and other foreign Roman Catholic priests in the mine area and the assignment of Bolivian priests in their place.

Miners led by Communists previously had attacked the Canadian order's church and attempted to destroy its radio station, Pius XII.

Education Minister Jose Felman hurried to the mines, in southern Bolivia to meet with union chiefs to discuss their demands.

The laymen will be used primarily in rural areas "where the situation happens to be worst."

Rev. W. A. Rumsch, executive secretary of missions and parish education emphasized "we are not trying to introduce a second rate clergy, nor will we lower the standard for men entering the ministry."

Reporting for the Canadian Lutheran World Relief Fund, Rev. F. A. Scholes of Leduc said that in 1960 the agency shipped some 2,000,000 pounds of canned pork to Hong Kong, Austria and Germany. A total

SHOPPING GUIDE

To Ease That Aching Head—Foam-Cushioned Rollers!

By PENNY SAVER

As far as this little trouble-headed reporter is concerned, the arrival in Victoria of soft, puffy, foam-cushioned rollers is biggest news in a long time.

How often have you opened your eyes in the morning to find the pattern of a brush type roller indelibly impressed on your forehead? And has your eight-hour beauty sleep become a test of endurance, a sort of "who's-going-to-win-out-the-rollers-or-me" game, in which the rollers usually triumph as you pluck them out one by one as you doze...? You know the feeling.

There are a hundred other advantages to these new rollers. Soft pink foam is made in a non-slip texture that is pliable and absorbs moisture for quicker drying. No plastic pins are required; rollers are fitted with a barrette type of side fastener that cannot slip. Foam can be slipped off centre clip, and plastic structure used for very long, thick hair.

Small sized rollers come at $1 for package of 16; medium, $1 for 12; and very large, $1 for 10.

Visions of elite New York apartments, boudoirs complete with five-inch deep white carpets, perfumed bubble baths, mosaic tile walls—all this came into the mind's eye when I saw a long-handled back scratcher with pastel toned lambwool powderpuff on the end.

It is especially designed for the woman who has everything, or at least would like to feel for a moment that she does. The after-bath ritual of talcum powdering will become fun with this puff, priced at $1.25.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped, give her a phone call at EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It's Fine Time to Reduce—You're Not So Hungry Now

Except for summer vacations which tempt us with new and exotic food, summer is a wonderful time to reduce.

In the first place, we are not so hungry as we are in winter time. Zippy weather whets our appetites.

Actually, we do not require so much food in hot weather because a portion of our calorie intake is used for heat and we do not need to be heated up when the temperature soars.

Then, too, there is more opportunity for outdoor exercise and participation in sports. Take advantage of this. I know, you are supposed to walk many miles to lose a pound, but don't be discouraged by this. All extra physical activity, even short periods of it, count up to a big difference in weight, and in the happy distribution of it.

Swim this summer! It is the most healthful exercise which folks of all ages can indulge in. Also, it is beautifying to the figure. It builds lovely curves, is corrective to poor posture and flabbiness and streamlines bulges.

Some foods may sabotage your weight control in the summer because they appeal to you since they are cold. These may be heating because of their high calorie content.

During this season there is such a delightful and varied array of fresh fruits and vegetables that we cannot tire of them as we may in the winter when there is less selection. Use these generously in your summer menus. They are low in calorie count and high in health value.

Build your diet about these and seafoods, lean meat, fish and fowl, skim milk and fruit juice, and hard boiled eggs. Add some whole grain products and you have a perfect summer diet. Eliminate the calorie-packed sauces, fried foods and rich desserts except on special occasions.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Learn to Swim", which teaches you how to swim and gives you instructions for some swim strokes, send a

CAN'T FIND IT IN PATTERN?

JUST GATHER ANYWAY

"Dear Mrs. Farmer, 'I can't find a pattern that has gathers in the skirt at the waist-line, and still has a bodice I like. Is there a way I can gather any skirt without a pattern?' Mrs. C. J.

Dear Mrs. C. J.: If you prefer a slight gathered effect instead of darts, simply eliminate the darts and gather this additional fabric. If you desire slightly more gathers, cut the skirt a little wider from the hip-line up to the waistline.

These gathers can be evenly distributed or divided, with half of them on each side of the centre front. Experiment to see which are the most becoming to your figure before you permanently stitch them.

This type of skirt treatment is very flattering to many women and it still makes a very slim skirt because the extra fullness is from the waist to the hips only.

If you have any sewing problems, write to Eunice Farmer, in care of this newspaper.

Musical Talent Not Required

The London Philharmonic Orchestra is searching the city for a typist to join them at the Royal Festival Hall when they perform Erik Satie's Parade in a few weeks time. The work is scored for symphony orchestra, siren, fog horn, pistol and typewriter. It is not essential that the typist should be musical. But she must be able to ring the bell when the conductor gives the signal.

Mammoth Fashion Preview Gives News on Fall Styles

By Nana Damaske

Tonight in New York fashion editors from all across North America are assembling with typewriters, cameras and tape recorders.

To-morrow the story of Fall Fashion 1961 will begin to unfold... presented by the New York Couture Group.

The socialite living in a luxurious apartment on the Chicago Loop will pick up the Chicago American for high style news... a White House stenographer will scan the Washington Star for styles by Oleg Cassini who designs for Mrs. Kennedy.

Mrs. Average Housewife will read the Niagara Falls Review, Moline Daily Dispatch, Toledo Blade or any one of over 200 newspapers represented at the 37th National Press Week.

For those fashion editors who cannot always attend the seasonal fashion showings, the New York Couture Group sends out a full schedule of events, up-to-the-minute reports on the trends and a marvelous selection of pictures. For the next few weeks I will share this exciting fashion story with you.

The pundits have named the 1961 fall silhouette look... "breathing in" and "breathing out." "Breathing in" feeling is seen in clothes drawn inward at the diaphragm and waist, lifted at the bosom line and newly-squared shoulders. "Breathing out" look is totally relaxed and full of "fall," often deeply bloused and sashed and always with a new airy movement at the hemline.

Most waistlines are normal or low, but a few, high fashion designers will return to the

When you don't have fresh milk on hand for making packaged, instant pudding mixes, canned evaporated milk can be used just as well. It should, however, be diluted with water in the proportion of one cup of evaporated milk to one cup of water, to obtain the best flavor and texture.

Glass absorbs heat more readily than metal, therefore if glass baking pans are used for baking, oven temperatures should be reduced by 25 degrees.

DEAR ABBY

He's Some Mathematician!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Father Hears Vows

Officiating at the recent marriage of his son was Dr. F. E. H. James. He was assisted by Rev. Laura E. Butler. The marriage of Katharine Joan, daughter of Mrs. Christina Worth of Lumby, B.C., and John Kenneth James, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. E. H. James, Briar Place, was solemnized in a late afternoon ceremony held in Metropolitan United Church.

Norman Sier gave in marriage the lovely bride, who chose a short white organza wedding gown, complemented with bouquet of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Sheila Worth of Vancouver, sister of the bride, was only attendant. She wore a turquoise silk shantung sheath with white organza overlay and a bouquet of peach gladioli.

Dave Unwin was best man, while Jim Jicking and Trevor James ushered.

Duke of Kent Room of the Empress Hotel was scene of a reception afterwards, where Jim Chow proposed a toast to the bride. The young couple plan to make their home next year in North Vancouver.

More than 80 per cent of Canadian women don't know what they need or how to buy their foundation garments, according to the Foundation Garment Council of Canada. Many women still ask for a specific garment solely because a friend said it was comfortable for her, disregarding their differences in figure type, skin tone, wardrobe needs and all the things a good fitter takes into account. This points up the need for fitting for a woman to be sure she has the right foundations.

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago my husband put me on an allowance of $15 a week. That was to feed and clothe myself and our two children. Today we have eight children, and I am still getting $15 a week. I just can't make ends meet on this, but my husband isn't able to understand it. How can I beat some sense into his head?

ALWAYS BROKE

DEAR ABBY: It's too bad some men don't add as well as they multiply. Write out your budget and hand it to your husband. If he thinks eight children and a wife can be fed on $60 a month, invite him to try it.

DEAR ABBY: I notice on television and in the movies,

Salt Spring—Brownies of the Salt Spring Island Brownie Pack held a "flying up" ceremony in St. George's parish hall under the leadership of Brown Owl, Mrs. Dorothy Hook.

She was assisted by Packie, Barbara Newman, Pat Stewart received her first badge and Golden Hand badge was presented by Mrs. Hook to Janet Haigh, collector badge to Anne Harvey. Receiving "wings" were Marilynne Briden, Mary Alice Coles, Jean Croft, Jean Stevens, Marion Hollings and Cherrie Horel. They were welcomed by Guide, Pat Atkins. Gillian Green, who leaves shortly for Kitimat, was presented with a gift from her fellow Brownies and Mrs. J. W. A. Green received a presentation for her work with the pack.

Following the ceremonies, refreshments were served to the Brownies, mothers and friends. Mrs. Mac Mout and Mrs. Austin Wilson acted as servers.

when a man kisses a woman, they both close their eyes. I don't see any sense in this. Who made up that rule? When I kiss a man I always keep my eyes open. I look at him while he is kissing me and his eyes are open, too. Can you answer this question if you don't think it's too stupid?

OPEN EYES

DEAR OPEN: The question is far from stupid. Don't worry about whether the man has his eyes opened or closed, but when a girl kisses a man she would be wise to keep at least one eye open.

DEAR ABBY: The lady across the alley from us chains her dog up to the garage at 6 a.m. and leaves him there all day until she gets home at night. Now what?

TODAY'S RECIPE

Chili Cottage Cheese Salad

One cup ripe olives, 1 cup cubed cucumber, 1 pint cottage cheese, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon instant minced onion, 1/2 teaspoon salt, dash freshly ground pepper, 1/16 teaspoon chili powder, salad greens, 2 large tomatoes (sliced), whole ripe olives for garnish.

Cut ripe olives in large wedges. Combine with all ingredients except salad greens, tomatoes and whole olives. Arrange salad greens and tomato slices on individual salad plates. Top with cottage cheese mixture. Garnish with whole ripe olives.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

I have put cotton in my ears, but then I realized that I couldn't hear the telephone, so I had to stop that. I can't close my windows, because I love the fresh air and dislike a stuffy house. I have never had trouble with my neighbors before. I am renting this house so don't know if I have the right to complain. The lady with the dog owns her home. Have you a suggestion?

DEAR NEIGHBOR: The woman with the dog may own her home, but she doesn't own the block. Her dog is disturbing the peace. And it would appear she is abusing the dog to boot. Talk to her about the disturbance her dog is creating. If she doesn't do something about it, the police will.

COLORFUL BIRD SERIES—No. 5

Specimen No. 5, in this continuing series of colorful birds by artist Jane Niebrugge, is the Baltimore Oriole. In summer, this bird lives in central and eastern portions of the United States, and in southern Canada. In winter, it is found in southern Mexico, Central America, Colombia and Venezuela. It is named for Lord Baltimore, who founded Maryland, where the bird was first discovered.

The male of the species (pictured) is seven to eight inches long. Its head and back are glossy black; its remainder, other than white wing bars, is bright orange. The nest of the Baltimore Oriole resembles a deep purse. It is constructed of fibres, pieces of string, hair and bark strips and usually is found at the tip of a limb. Eggs are about an inch long, dull white with dark, irregular lines. In its melodious call, the Baltimore Oriole seems to say, "Come right here dear."

ASK HENRY

The writer of this weekly advice column is an 11-year-old boy. The advice he gives is strictly his own. It has not been changed by his parents or the editor. He welcomes letters from parents. If you want him to discuss your problem write to ASK HENRY, in care of this newspaper.

Dear Henry: My eight-year-old son set a mouse trap and put it in his trouser pocket before he went to bed. It almost broke my finger. Why do you suppose he did that?
Bruised Papa.

Dear Bruised Papa: Your son set the mouse trap to bruise a Papa who shouldn't be nosing around his son's pocket.
Henry.

Dear Henry: My Mary, who is eight, likes to make parties in my absence and uses up my provisions with her friends. She was told not to do it without my permission, but she repeats it again. What can I do?
Mary's Mother.

Dear Mary's Mother: Your girl is trying to win popularity among her friends. Let her have a few parties once in a while. Be patient with your budding social director.
Henry.

Dear Henry: There is so much argument among parents about spanking that I would like to know how present-day kids feel about being spanked. I do not mean hard whippings but just paddling across the parents' lap and such. Do they resent this form of punishment when they misbehave?
Parent.

Dear Parent: Children resent any form of spanking. I didn't exactly love being spanked. I resented it for a little while when I thought I was guilty and much longer when I was not guilty. If you can't reason with a little kid, spanking is good. For old children another punishment is better.
Henry.

Dear Henry: My daughter is 13 and takes piano lessons. I want her to quit because she is forced to practise and it takes a lot of her time. When I asked her to quit she said "No. I want to keep learning piano." How can I get her to quit?
Miserable Father.

Dear Miserable Father: Don't cut off the lessons. Be happy that she does study her piano. A lot of children take piano lessons and don't study it. Your daughter may grow up to be a second Beethoven.
Henry.

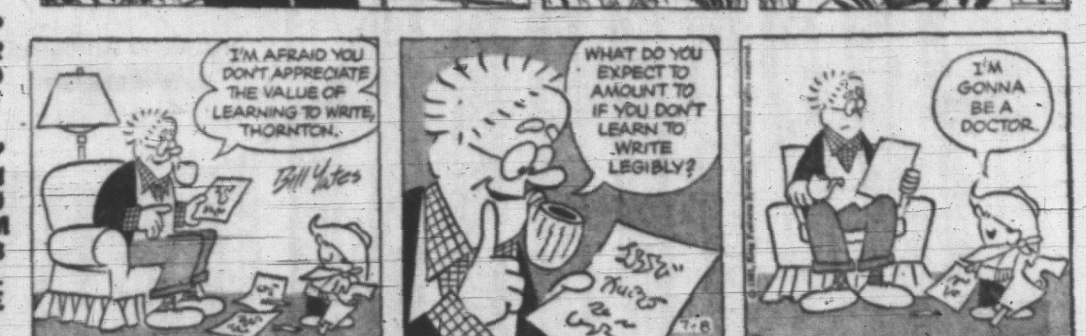

Dear Henry: I am a girl, eight, and I always want to be a tomboy. But my mommy always says I should be a little lady and I say to myself I'm still a little sissy. But I still play with boys and like it. So what do you think about that?
Tomboy.

Dear Tomboy: Girls were made to be sissies. We don't want girls running the world. Be a tomboy if you want to, you will grow out of it.
HENRY.

Showdown Close In Senate

OTTAWA (UPI) — The Liberal majority in the Senate today rallied its strength against Prime Minister Diefenbaker's threat of Senate reform.

The upper chamber of Parliament stole the scene from the House of Commons when it met this afternoon in an unusual Saturday sitting.

The senators have before them two of the hottest items of legislation of the current session—the bill to fire Bank of Canada governor James E. Coyne, and the Commons rejection of a Senate amendment to the government's controversial tariff bill.

The Liberals, who have a three-to-one majority in the upper House, alerted as many of their out-of-town colleagues to rush to the capital to be on hand for the import debate.

COMMITTEE MET

The Senate's banking and commerce committee met at 10:30 a.m. to discuss a bill to widen the scope of operations of the Industrial Development Bank which is headed by Coyne in addition to his role as governor of the central bank.

Coyne did not appear as speculated before the committee, which passed the bill without amendment. The bill was sent back to the Senate for third and final reading.

The tariff bill amendment was regarded as perhaps the most significant of the two items of business as far as the Senate was concerned.

Diefenbaker rejected the amendment to the government's "class or kind" legislation and said that if the Senate did not back down, he would call a general election "sooner or later... in the days ahead" to let the people decide on the issue of Senate reform.

TO ADJOURN

With the controversial Coyne bill out of the way, the Commons today looked forward to a summer vacation beginning tonight.

Although the Liberals blocked attempts to sit Friday night, the government hoped that the few major items of business still on the order paper would be cleaned up in the regular sitting today.

Beginning at 11 a.m., the Commons was scheduled to consider a bill to finance the Canadian National Railways' big deficit, budget legislation involving the Income Tax Act, an appropriation act and interim supply to carry the government operations over the holiday period.

The House earlier had hoped to recess for the summer on June 30, returning early in September.

Today was the 152nd day of the present session, close to the record 155 days set in 1903 and the modern record of 154 days during the 1956 pipeline debate.

U.K. FIXES CAVITIES FOR SOVIET DANCERS

LONDON (AP) — Russian ballet dancers appearing have gone on a dental spree—at the expense of British taxpayers.

A spokesman for the Leningrad Kirov Ballet Company's British agents said a dozen girl dancers have been paying regular visits to London dentists to have neglected teeth fixed at a cost of £1 ($2.80) each.

Under the national health service Britons—and visitors to this country—pay only £1 for dental treatment with the rest of the cost being met out of government funds.

SOUTH VIET NAM

Grenade Tossed At U.S. Envoy

... unhurt

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — United States Ambassador Frederick Nolting escaped unhurt today when one of two would-be assassins threw a home-made grenade at his car. The grenade failed to explode.

The envoy's bodyguard fired several shots at the assailants, who were on a motor bicycle. One escaped on the machine and the other ran off on foot through heavy traffic on one of Saigon's main thoroughfares.

A United States Embassy spokesman said a man on a motor bicycle with another man on the passenger seat roared past the car in which Nolting, his bodyguard and his driver were travelling. The driver of the motorcycle tossed the grenade at the car window. The grenade hit the top of the car roof and skidded off onto the back of the car where it lodged without exploding.

CCFers Pledge Fight On Divorce Report

OTTAWA (UPI) — Two CCF members of parliament today blasted a Commons report on divorce procedure, which they said would "perpetuate the corruption which now exists in divorce matters."

Frank Howard (Skeena) and Arnold Peters (Timiskaming) in a statement outside the House said they would fight "every inch of the way," the report of a special committee appointed by Commons Speaker Roland Michener to improve procedures for hearing divorce bills from Quebec and Newfoundland.

The special committee suggested that the Commons give automatic first and second readings to divorce bills, send them to the Commons miscellaneous bills committee, and after approval there send them back to the House for automatic third and final reading.

The suggested procedure apparently was designed to prevent a repetition of the divorce filibuster by Howard and Peters which has blocked some 356 divorce bills passed by the Senate.

The two MPs have attempted to rid the Commons of the responsibility for granting divorces in the two provinces

'Forced' By Crisis On Berlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev announced today the Soviet Union has suspended planned reductions in its armed forces in view of the world situation.

War budgets of the North Atlantic nations are growing, Khrushchev said, and the Soviet government accordingly has decided to increase defence allocations for this year by 3,144,000,000 rubles. The Russians value the ruble at $1.11 U.S.

This will raise the Soviet Union's announced military spending in 1961 to 12,399,000,000 rubles.

FORCED MEASURES

Khrushchev asserted that these are forced measures. "We are taking them due to the emerging circumstances because we cannot neglect the interests of the Soviet people's security."

The premier appealed in a speech to the leaders of the United States, Britain and France to "display wisdom" and join in concluding a peace treaty with Germany.

Khrushchev urged the leaders of Russia's Second World War allies — President Kennedy, President de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan — to "display wisdom in the solution of the German question, to sit down at the conference table together with the other peace-loving nations and to conclude a peace treaty."

Khrushchev announced in January, 1960, that he planned to cut the strength of the Soviet armed forces to 2,400,000 from 3,600,000. He said at the time the Soviet Union was taking this unilateral step without delay and without conditions.

'SHOW NO DESIRE'

Calling today for a peace treaty with Germany, he said the Western leaders showed no desire to co-operate with the U.S.S.R. in concluding a German treaty. He said threatening noises had appeared in the statements of the western powers.

He expressed agreement a recent statement by Kennedy that any new decision on West Berlin should not jeopardize the rights of the city's population to make an independent choice as free peoples.

"Our proposals fully meet this requirement. It is perfectly natural, however, that any decision on West Berlin must reckon with the fact that it is in the heart of a sovereign state and that all West Berlin's communication with the outer world passes through the territory of this state."

Berlin is 110 miles inside East Germany. "We shall sign the peace treaty with East Germany and order our armed forces to administer a worthy rebuff to any aggressor if he raises his hand against the Soviet Union or our friends."

Britain Cuts Kuwait Force

KUWAIT TOWN (AP) — Britain began cutting her 5,000-man defence force in Kuwait today amid indications officials felt the immediate danger of attack from Iraq has been averted. But a token force will remain in the sheikdom.

COX GOES IN, CAN'T GET OUT

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (Reuters) — The Russian Navy had an embarrassing moment today after winning the top prize of the Henley Royal Regatta, the Grand Challenge Cup. The Soviet sailors decided to celebrate by tossing their coxswain into the water. The cox, it turned out, was a non-swimming sailor. He had to be rescued.

SHORTS IN STYLE AGAIN

Don't Forget the Lotion!

Shorts and sunburn weather has returned to the city "for a couple of days at least," weatherman William Mackie said today.

After a hot and brilliant Dominion Day weekend, weather deteriorated until Wednesday, when .66 inch of rain fell from the early morning to mid-afternoon.

Gradual improvement followed, to the point where the forecast is "sunny and warm today and Sunday."

Temperatures will verge on "hot." Official temperature at Gonzales Observatory at noon was 67 degrees, and Mr.

Mackie expected a high of 75 degrees later this afternoon in warmer parts of the city and district.

Minimum overnight will be 52 degrees, and another peak of 75 degrees is expected for Sunday.

Winds will be northerly at 15 miles per hour Sunday morning, then southwesterly at 15 miles in the afternoon.

Outlook is uncertain, Mr. Mackie said. "There is storm activity west of us, and it will have to be considered early in the week," he said. "Meanwhile, the good weather will hold through Sunday."

French Bombing

CHARTRES, France (UPI) — A plastic bomb exploded just in front of Chartres' famous medieval cathedral today. The blast damaged the main doorway and smashed windows in several houses near the ancient cathedral square. No one was injured.

IF BUILDING, DOCKS BUILT

Inner Harbor Despoiled — Conservation Council

The Conservation Council of Victoria has lodged a protest against construction of a Department of Transport building and dock on the Belleville Street side of the Inner Harbor, just west of the CPR dock.

In a letter to A. W. DeB. McPhillips, Victoria MP, the council's president, Kenneth McAllister, points out that the industrial reserve would be a more suitable location.

"My own observation is that the servicing of Department of Transport vessels entails a yard with large pieces of equipment scattered about," the letter states.

"This could by no stretch of the imagination improve the tidy and attractive vista of the inner harbor. Neither would a building of a size to equal $2,500,000. It could only crowd in on a small harbor, cutting out light and view."

SALMON-WATCHERS ON TENTERHOOKS

Headline in that there other paper.

Now, THERE'S a headline calculated to give one pause for thought.

In fact, I have paused to think about it ever since it appeared Friday morning.

Perhaps it isn't a think-making headline for such as you, but it surely is for me.

Because I am a watcher from 'way back.

I have dabbled in bird-watching. I have had some experience with the dog watch.

I am an inveterate log-boom watcher, and in the line of duty became an expert Juan-de-Fuca-Strait-swimmer-watcher.

I have been a passing-parade-watcher for many years; a falling-star-watcher of patience and persistence; a bulldozer-watcher of enthusiasm; a steep-jack-watcher whose awe is matched only by his acrophobia.

Fire-watching, flood-watching and disaster-watching in general have been my avocation as well as vocation.

I have watched politicians politic, boxers box, footballers football, cliffhangers cliff-hang, dancers dance, and logrollers log-roll.

But dag-nabbed if I have ever been a salmon-watcher. Especially a salmon-watcher on tenterhooks.

I don't think I have the qualifications to be a plain, ordinary salmon watcher, let alone a salmon-watcher on tenterhooks.

A plain, ordinary salmon watcher, I should imagine, would have to be very alert, agile, and able to hold his breath under water for long periods of time.

What it would be like to be alert, agile, and hold your breath under water while on tenterhooks is more than I can even imagine.

I think I will stick to more sedentary activities, such as log-boom-watching.

Salmon-watching I will leave to that there other paper, no matter how tenter the hook.

FIRST TO ACT

Power Boats Controlled By Oak Bay

Oak Bay is the first municipality in the area to take advantage of transport department regulations to control power-boating.

Sign posts have been set out at intervals off Willows Beach, the city's most popular urban swimming, sunning and boating place.

A series of float-mounted signboards have been moored in a line parallel to the Esplanade 200 yards offshore.

They read:

"Restricted area. Five miles an hour. No power boats shoreward of these signs."

The signs are aimed at irresponsible power boaters and water skiers whose gyrations close to the beach have endangered swimmers and even youngsters wading offshore.

LINES EXTENDED

The move was made possible by the extension last year of the municipal boundary to include waters within a line drawn between Oak Bay Boat-house and Cattle Point.

Chief Robert Smith said police will make special patrols of the area, at least during the summer.

He said enforcement of the boating regulations presents no problem. A power boat is available at all times through an agreement with the Boat-house lessee.

The signs are part of a $1,500 program at Willows, of which four new diving and swimming stages form the major item.

Three stages are anchored now and the fourth, to be set just off Willows Park, is being built.

Each 20 feet long and 12 feet wide, the stages are mounted on sections of cedar logs and were towed by Island Tug and Barge from B.C. Forest Products mill in the Inner Harbor.

Meeting Set For Monday On Road Plan

Representatives of 120 Cadboro Bay Road property owners will meet informally with Oak Bay council Monday night to hear details of proposed secondary highway improvements.

The municipality hopes to bring slightly more than 1½ miles of Cadboro Bay Road up to secondary standard by widening to 40 feet and installing curbs, gutter and sidewalks next year.

If the project meets with provincial government approval the municipality can expect up to 50 per cent cost-sharing.

20-YEAR PAYMENTS

It would be undertaken as a municipally-initiated local improvement, for which the property owners would be charged a share over a period of 20 years.

It is proposed to begin the improvement at Dalhousie, existing limit of concrete curbing, and end at the Saanich boundary just outside the northern Uplands gate.

Asphalt paving, concrete curbs and drainage would be laid the whole length. Concrete sidewalks—four feet wide—would be put on the west side from Dalhousie to Estevan; both sides from Estevan to Dufferin; the west side from Dufferin to Lansdowne, and on the east side from Cedar Hill Cross Road to Beach Drive.

HARD TO STOP

Estimated total cost of the work is $297,830, according to an engineering study. Oak Bay's share would be $244,730. At least 50 per cent disbursement is necessary to block the project.

Parts of Cadboro Bay Road are in poor condition and most of the portion referred to is barely wide enough for two cars to pass.

FOR ONE HOUR'S FREEDOM

Four Months Added To Escapee's Term

A brief hour of freedom Thursday has cost a convict four months additional imprisonment.

Edwin Patrick Simpkins, 21, remained impassive when sentenced in Saanich police court today. He refused to say anything in his own defence.

The court was told Friday Simpkins fled from a car taking him from William Head minimum security institute to the mainland B.C. Penitentiary. He was recaptured by Saanich police near the intersection of Douglas Street and Trans-Canada Highway.

COULDN'T ADAPT

With two others, Simpkins was being moved from William Head because of his inability to adapt to the institution's vocational program designed to fit prisoners for release to the outside world.

His two-year sentence for housebreaking was due to expire in December. Simpkins was transferred from the penitentiary in January.

RECORD

His record, dating back to 1955, included a total of 13 years and three months, some running concurrently.

Offences included breaking and entering, theft, uttering forged documents, attempted armed robbery, forgery; possession of a stolen car, possession of burglary instruments and possession of stolen goods.

He surrendered to Saanich constables Charles Trueitt and John Post after being found lying in the grass of a vacant lot.

2.9 MILLION CLAIMS ON HOSPITAL FUNDS

British Columbia's Hospital Insurance Service paid more than 2,900,000 claims at an estimated cost of $366,000,000 between Jan. 1, 1949, and June 30, 1961, Health Minister Eric Martin announced Friday.

"This is the equivalent of hospital bills totalling over $220 for each man, woman and child living in B.C. today," the minister said.

He added that a check of hospital admissions for 1959 indicated that 70 per cent of all patients were hospitalized under one of six major diagnostic categories:

Maternity; diseases of the circulatory system (accounting for one-third of all deaths); diseases of the digestive system; accidents, poisoning and violence; diseases of the respiratory system; benign and malignant neoplasms.

Mr. Martin said the major cause of lengthy hospitalization was degenerative and arterio-sclerotic heart disease, including coronary disease.

He revealed that almost 40 per cent of all hospital deaths occurred among patients of 75 years and over.

Dr. Shrum Seen As Power Czar

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

The stage is set for the B.C. government to create a single agency to control all the province's electric power resources, and to appoint one man to run it.

The man for the job is unquestionably Dr. Gordon Shrum.

At present he is chairman of the B.C. Energy Board and of the B.C. Research Council.

He retired at the end of last month as dean of graduate studies and head of the physics department at University of B.C. He has also been employed by the government on numerous occasions, including conducting a dental technicians' inquiry and the power commission investigation of 1958.

What he will head is not certain: it could be a greatly-inflated energy board; it could be the B.C. Power Commission; or a completely new agency; or a new government department.

The move setting up such an authority is expected to be Premier Bennett's "bombshell" at the August legislative session.

What he will probably do is to enact legislation granting authority for a single agency of some kind to control power in B.C. He may wait a while before appointing its leader and defining its powers.

Takeover of the B.C. Electric and possibly other utilities would follow, not necessarily immediately. It is not necessary to enact legislation to expropriate a private utility. It can be done under the present Power Act.

While his grand design for a giant power grid exchanging energy across the border seems to be close to reality, it is extremely unlikely that the premier will go so far as to kill the entire International Columbia River treaty already signed by Canada and the U.S.

That treaty is Mr. Bennett's only guarantee that he will get any return from the U.S. on power developments undertaken in B.C.

It is vital to his policy of exporting power. What he might do is engineer amendments to the treaty, which can be effected by exchange of notes between governments.

One can't help but feel that the whole proposition: taking over B.C. Electric; creating public power; making millions out of export, is as much politic as humanitarian.

If B.C. "nationalizes" power, that will be one in the eye for the CCF-New Party, who felt they had the only chance to beat Mr. Bennett in the next election. He would be lifting, from under their noses, their choicest platform plank.

The idea of a new government department of electrical energy and hydro resources has been kicked around by the cabinet for more than a year.

A cabinet source says that when first proposed it was regarded as premature, but a good idea for the future. Key studies for the energy board report are being made by consulting firms in England.

It was after his return from a visit there that Dr. Shrum began to speak out publicly at home on power exports and integration of resources, despite the fact the board's final report isn't due until mid-August.

Did he get the word from the British firms, or did he give it to them?

HOLLYWOOD TOUCH GIVEN POLICE CARS

The Broderick Crawford "Highway Patrol" look is being adopted by city police cars.

Following a recent police commission decision, four police cars will have their front doors painted white with the words "City Police" in black.

Although the RCMP and some departments in outlying areas adopted this system some time ago this will mark the first Victoria departure from plain black cars.

One prowler car is in the process of being painted now and two others, plus the traffic car, are expected to be done before the month's end.

Sought Old Mine, Found Gem Rock

By DON INGHAM

A prospector who has been chasing Dame Fortune for most of his 51 years believes he has found her on Hill 60, between Duncan and Cowichan Lake.

"She" is a deposit of manganese silicate, a gem stone known to the trade as rhodonite, which finder Anton "Andy" Haryluk of Duncan hopes to sell to "rock hounds" for $1 per pound.

"I figure there are about 1,500,000 pounds in the vein," he said. "If it works out it will mean I won't have to run up and down any more hills looking for a prospect. I'm getting too old for that."

'Open Pit' Mine To Be Worked

"I was looking for the old mine in hopes that I would find some gem stone," Mr. Haryluk said. "I had a theory I was checking out, and pretty soon I was able to say 'well, well, well—what have we here' and there it was."

Surface dimensions of the outcropping, high on the hill north of Cowichan Lake Road, are about four by 100 feet. He expects good depth and will work it as an open-pit mine.

He staked six claims around the outcropping, has completed most of his negotiations with the E and N Railway, which owns the land, and is ready to start operating shortly under the name of Central-Manganese Ltd.

It will produce manganese oxide, which is used in steel-making; manganese carbonate, or rhodochrosite, which has a market in chemical industries, and the rhodonite.

This rhodonite is a hard rock, predominantly pink, and shot through with veins of unmarried, weatherbeaten, and filled with irrepressible optimism, he started prospecting 30 years ago in Manitoba, where he was born.

He worked west, and has been in B.C. 22 years and on Vancouver Island six years. He learned his business by reading, studying in night school courses, working with geologists and engineers, prospecting, and "starving to death."

He came across this prospect while prowling the countryside to find a manganese oxide deposit which was worked for a short time during the First World War.

brown, white, black, yellow and green.

It is extremely popular with amateur lapidaries, who are growing in number, and who use this and other semi-precious stones in their hobby of making jewelry or merely cutting and polishing a particularly handsome piece of rock.

Mr. Haryluk said the Hill 60 rhodonite likely is the best in the world.

"There was a deposit in the Balkans, but it is just about played out," he said. "There is another in Australia, but the ore doesn't have the varied colors found here."

Brannen School 'Just an Oasis'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A CCF member of the legislature said Friday the Brannen Lake Industrial School at Nanaimo is "just an oasis in the desert."

Dave Barrett, of Dewdney, a B.C. supervisor for the John Howard Society, described schools such as Brannen Lake as worthless.

He said there are no effective preventive measures to deal with juvenile offenders before admittance to the school and little or no attention is given them after they leave.

"When the boys leave the school they just go back to the same environment that put them there in the first place."

LOCAL PROBLEM

"What is really needed is adequate prevention on the local community level where potential juvenile offenders can receive more personal and individual guidance than is possible in an industrial school."

He was commenting on remarks of Magistrate Gordon Scott that overcrowding at the school made it ineffective. He said sentences are too short for the school to do any good.

Nanaimo Magistrate Lionel Beevor Potts suggested that the school would be more effective if it was under the jurisdiction of the attorney-general's department instead of the health and welfare department.

He said he only gives minimum sentences to the school because he feels the boys do not get proper training there.
